Italian production also is said to have fallen—from 1,200 monthly last year to 600 or 700 now.

Only in submarine production is Germany on the upgrade, these sources said. Between 25 and 29 are being launched each month, compared with 16 to 19 a year ago, but better allied defensive measures are said to be taking care of that increase.

From foreign contacts, quoted on a foreign diplomatic source, come the following additional reports of Germany's shortages:

The Germans have ordered armored divisions moved by rail henceforth instead of motor transport to save oil, rubber and motors.

During the past three weeks the Nazis have requisitioned all horses in Norway and Holland, presumably to help war transportation.

Thirty per cent of the crews of German merchant ships now plying the North sea are women.

GUERILLAS THE THIRD FRONT. Guerilla activity in many areas of Hitler-held territory is on the increase. Reports from abroad indicate that these seemingly sporadic outbursts are all part of an integrated plan — a "third front" — put into effect by United Nations officials in Great Britain. Specially trained native leaders are landed by Allied planes and by parachute at secret locations in Europe. These men, welcomed by their countrymen, direct the blowing up of bridges, firing of warehouses, raiding of Nazi military posts and killing of officers and sabotaging of war production. They coordinate the "silent" war against the invader. Some of the most recent activities of these guerilla bands and armies are shown on the map.

War Summary

SOLOMONS — U. S. forces shoot down 123 Jap planes while losing 25 craft and 15 pilots. Yanks mop enemy force on Rendova island.

AUSTRALIA—MacArthur's headquarters report U. S troops turn heavy guns on Munda airfield after Solomons landing.

AFRICA—Allies shoot down four axis planes and keep up attack on enemy shipping.

PRODUCTION—Experts in England say Nazi production rate badly crippled after four years of war.

WOMEN VOLUNTEER DAY NURSERY WORK

Canteen Corps Enrolled for Service.

Women and girls who operate the Marion Union Station canteen will also assist in operation of Marion's new Day Nursery, it was announced today. They volunteered their services. The Day Nursery at 136 Hill street will be formally opened for inspection of the public at a silver tea Sunday from 4 to 6 p. m.

Mrs. J. H. Smith is in charge of the canteen volunteers, who will assist at the nursery between 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. every day. These volunteers will help get the children fixed for their noon meal, and will also aid in serving of the meal.

For each day Mrs. Smith has appointed one woman to be in charge and two women to assist her. The following women will be in charge on various days through July and August: Mrs. C. J. Zimmerman, Mrs. Morgan Burke, Mrs. H. K. Mouser, Mrs. Carl Schell, Mrs. C. E. Tuttle, Mrs. O. G. Stephenson, Mrs. Douglas Torrence, Miss Mary Jo Stafford, Mrs. Albert Klepper, Mrs. Wilson Tway, Mrs. C. L. Rutherford, Mrs. Hoover Brown, Mrs. M. K. Pinkerman, Mrs. C. A. Baugh, Mrs. George Howser, Mrs. John Gries, Mrs. Albert May, Mrs. James C. Woods, Mrs. L. F. Fetter, Miss Mary Katherine Smith, Mrs. H. B. Hane, Mrs. Paul Williams, Mrs. George Alber, Mrs. Thomas E. Sonnanstine, Mrs. George Rinker, Mrs. Charles E. Sherer and Mrs. E. M. Cooney.

Arangements for the tea Sunday are being made by members of the house, social and entertainment committees, headed by Mrs. J. B. Holloway, chairman of the social committee. The committee members are Mrs. Paul Lust, Mrs. John Jacoby, Mrs. Ernest Smith, Mrs. R. L. Poland, Mrs. Eugene Willey, Mrs. H. K. Mouser and Mrs. Carl LaMarche.

HUNDREDS SEE JAP SUB HERE

War Trophy on Display in Marion Four Hours in War Bond Tour.

Marion county, which by no means has been idle in contributing in men, money and munitions to the success of America's total war effort, scored another home run today in connection with the four-hour visit here of the Jap sub captured on a reef in the Hawaiian islands the morning after Pearl Harbor.

In charge of arrangements for the visit was a war bond committee headed by A. W. Kette.

Marion countians who inspected the sub during its four-hour stay between 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. saw the first under-water craft ever on display in Marion.

81 Feet Long

The sub, which measures 81 feet long, is mounted on a trailer. The over-all length of the truck and trailer is 94 feet. The unit weighs approximately 75,000 pounds.

Driving the tractor-trailer unit in its nation-wide tour is Robert Trutner of Oakland, Calif., accompanied by his bride of May 13.

The sub's two torpedoes were located in tubes in the nose. The commander still had a third weapon, a 300-pound charge of nitroglycerine located amidships. After discharging the torpedoes he was supposed to ram an enemy ship with the sub.

Accompanying the sub in its 775-mile tour throughout Ohio is Frank B. Pauly, deputy administrator of the Ohio war savings staff. Mr. Pauly said that 21 stops are on the Ohio tour. From Marion the sub will go to Mansfield.

On its way to Mansfield it was to pause briefly at the Marion Engineer Depot. Coming from Lima this morning it stopped in front of the offices of the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Soldiers Band Help

On duty at the sub this morning were 10 soldiers from the Marion Engineer Depot under the direction of Sgt. John A. Bottelson of Minneapolis. Part of the Harding High school band under the direction of Homer E. Huffman escorted the sub to the downtown district.

Miss Ruth Kaelber of the Chamber of Commerce office and Miss Loa Baumgartner, secretary of the county war bond committee, were on duty to sell war bonds and stamps.

NO STAR MONDAY

In accordance with long established custom, The Star will not be published on July 5, the date set for observance of National Independence day.

MARION CO. PLANE DUE TO FLY SOON

Notice Is Received by Bond Chairman Schoenlaub.

"The Spirit of Marion County, Ohio" is expected to sprout wings in the near future and leave for one of the world battle fronts.

County War Bond Chairman Elmer J. Schoenlaub yesterday received word that the national war bond office in Washington has filed formal application with the war department to have "The Spirit of Marion County, Ohio" painted on the nose of a four-motor bomber as a result of Marion county having far oversubscribed its May war bond drive of $325,000 to buy a bomber.

Bombers are kept busy these days, so there probably won't be any opportunity for the plane to visit its namesake county, Mr. Schoenlaub said. However, photographs will be taken of the plane as soon as it has been named and christened, and these photos will be sent to the county war bond committee, according to word received from the state war bond office in Cleveland.

Large U. S. and Canadian Forces Sent to Britain

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 2—Large contingents of American and Canadian troops have been convoyed to Britain during the past two months without loss, a reliable source said today.

The exact number of the reinforcements was not disclosed, but an unofficial British military said their strength "exceeded the highest hopes."

123 JAP PLANES SHOT DOWN IN 2-DAY BATTLE

American Losses Are 25 Aircraft with 15 Pilots Listed as Missing.

By The Associated Press

SOUTH PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, July 2—Admiral William F. Halsey's South Pacific headquarters announced today that 123 Japanese planes were shot down over the New Georgia islands Wednesday and Thursday against American losses of 25 planes and 15 pilots.

A total of 101 enemy planes were knocked out of the sky Wednesday, the day our forces landed in the central Solomons, and 17 American planes were destroyed but seven of their pilots were saved.

The next day the Japanese lost an additional 22 aircraft. American losses in the continuing air battle were eight planes, the pilots of three of which landed safely.

Attack Divided

On the first day of the invasion, the enemy divided his attacks between ship and land targets. Land positions only were raided yesterday.

Army, Navy and Marine pilots thus practically repeated their remarkable performance over Guadalcanal two weeks before when the score was 94 Japanese planes destroyed to six American lost.

The Navy transport McCawley, which sank without loss of a single man after an aerial attack on the first day of the Rendova landings, was the only American ship lost in the operation, headquarters announced. The McCawley was known widely as the flagship of the original Guadalcanal invasion transport fleet last August.

Headquarters also disclosed that the occupation by Marines of Viru harbor of the main island of New Georgia (announced previously by Gen. Douglas MacArthur) was achieved after the American forces had fought their way through a jungle against "medium" Japanese opposition.

Marines Land Early

Those Marines, headquarters said, were landed as an advance element several days before the main push.

Land action by the Americans on Rendova was reported today to have consisted mainly of mopping up operations.

The invaders were said so far to have encountered nothing stronger than patrols in the way of ground opposition, and the enemy's efforts to counter the landings were limited largely to air attacks on the American troops and their invasion craft.

The entire American operation was described officially today as "successful" and proceeding according to plan." "Our forces are well established," the announcement added.

Point Values Raised on Numerous Cuts of Meats

Increases Run from One to Two Points a Pound; Beef Principal Item Affected.

(Charts showing new point values appear on Pages 4 and 5)

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2 — The office of price administration (OPA), predicting a new low in beef supplies available for civilians in July today increased ration values of beef cuts by another point a pound and in a few cases, two points.

The new point values for beef, which place the ration cost of the most popular cuts at from 9 to 13 points, become effective July 4.

Unless the supply situation should warrant changes in the meantime, the new point values will remain in effect until Aug. 1.

Officials said the revised values were based on the present "bad" meat supply situation, with no allowance for improvement or deterioration. Any appreciable change in the supply might necessitate changes before the end of the month.

In addition to higher point values for beef, OPA also raised red coupon costs of some cuts of veal, lamb and mutton from 1 to 2 points a pound. These cuts include leg of veal, veal cutlets, veal loin and rib chops, and similar lamb-mutton cuts. Point values of the most popular pork cuts were not changed.

Canned Fish Increased

Canned fish items with the exception of oysters, were increased from 8 to 12 points. Oysters went up from 3 to 5 points.

"Red" reductions were confined for the most part to the fats, oils and dairy products groups. Margarine and lard dropped 1 point—5 to 4—while "process" butter, sold mainly in the south, appeared on the table for the first time at 4 points a pound. Regular butter remains unchanged at 8 points.

Cheddar cheese retains a value of 8 points a pound, but lower values were established for group 2 and 3 cheeses. Group 2, which includes cream, Neufchatel and creamed cottage cheese (containing more than 5 per cent butter fat) now are listed at 2 points a pound, and group 3, made up of Swiss, brick Munster and all other rationed cheese, 5 points. In each group there is a decrease of 1 point.

OPA also announced 17 changes in point values of processed foods, 12 upward and 5 downward.

Point value advances were made in seven vegetable items, and five canned bottled fruits. These increases range from about 5 per cent for vacuum-packed whole kernel corn to over 50 per cent for tomato catsup and chili sauce. Processed foods marked up include apples, apricots, fruit cocktail, peaches, pears, fresh lima beans, canned corn, peas, tomatoes, catsup, chili sauce and tomato paste. Reductions were made in fresh shelled beans, green or wax beans, tomato pulp or puree and some tomato sauces.

Coupons Valid July 4

The new "blue coupon" costs become effective July 4, and will remain valid through July. Pork point values were not increased, OPA said, because supplies of pork available during July are expected to be substantially larger than beef. By keeping pork point costs relatively cheap in comparison with beef, OPA hopes to whet the American appetite for pork.

In line with beef increases on the general list OPA advanced

FOOD SUBSIDY BILL VETOED

President Rejects Measure To Ban Funds for Roll Back of Prices.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Declaring it to be "an inflation bill," which would set the soldier, worker, and unorganized consumer "at war with the farmer," President Roosevelt vetoed today a bill which would extend the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation and also junk the administration's plan to whittle down food prices by subsidizing processors.

In one of the most acid messages he ever transmitted to congress, the Chief Executive said that the measure was not one to continue the CCC but to "hamstring" it.

Objects to Restrictions

"It places new and unwarranted restrictions on the use of its funds," he asserted, "and on the powers heretofore given to the administration to stabilize the cost of living. These restrictions would prevent our giving to farmers the assistance they need in carrying out our new food production programs * * *. They would make it impossible for us to stop the rising cost of living.

"As the measure now stands, this is an inflation bill, a high cost of living bill, a food shortage bill," he said in his veto message to congress.

In his lengthy and critical message, Mr. Roosevelt said he had tried to translate a part of the bill "into common sense English," and frankly did not know what it meant. He said reputable lawyers had advised that one section nullified another.

"No matter how this measure is interpreted," the President said, "it will have a devastating effect upon our economy and our war effort about which I believe the congress and the American people ought to clearly be warned."

He put his warning into three parts:

1. "This bill blacks out the

New City Patrolman Named; One Resigns

Appointment of John E. Richardson of 218 Orchard street as patrolman in the city police department became effective yesterday, Clyde Caldwell, safety-service director announced today.

Previous to his patrolman's position, Richardson was an agent with the Marion branch office of the Western and Southern Life Insurance company.

Resignation of Patrolman Emmett Young of 291 Bennett street from the city police force was accepted by Mr. Caldwell yesterday. Young was appointed patrolman June 9 of this year. In a letter sent by him to the service department on June 11, he asked to be released from his appointment.

Three-Week Furloughs Start in Ohio July 15

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 2—Newly inducted Army men will receive three-week furloughs in Ohio starting July 15, Lt. Col. E. L. Nelson reported at Ft. Hayes, headquarters of the Fifth service command. Furloughs now are two weeks.

Men inducted in the Navy, Marines or Coast Guard will continue to receive one-week furloughs.

STAR CARRIERS HEAR STAMP SALE PLANS

"Little Merchants" To Aid Nationwide July Drive.

Announcement of plans for participation of The Marion Star newspaper carriers "little merchant" force in the nationwide July war savings stamp drive to raise $150,000,000 for the purchase of the mystery aircraft carrier Shangri-La was made by William M. Collins, circulation manager of The Star at a meeting with carriers yesterday.

Mr. Collins told the carriers that a national quota for carrier salesman has been set up. It is $1 worth of war saving stamps per month per customer.

To the carrier coming nearest to equalling this mark or to the one surpassing it by the greatest percentage, Klines department store will present a $25 war bond. Jerry Paxson, manager of the store, was recently appointed chairman of the Marion county phase of the nationwide drive by County War Bond Chairman Elmer J. Schoenlaub.

The only figure available on the sale of stamps yesterday was the report from the post office, where first day sales totaled $703.75. Assistant Postmaster L. E. Cookston said.

ROY D. MOORE OHIO BOND HEAD

Named Chairman of New War Finance Unit; Morgenthau Praises State Record.

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today announced the appointment of Roy D. Moore of Canton, vice president and general manager of Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., as state chairman of the new Ohio War Finance committee.

Mr. Morgenthau commended Ohio on its excellent record as one of the 10 top states in sales of war bonds.

Between May 1, 1941 and May 31, 1943, the people of Ohio have purchased $1,002,000,000 of war savings bonds.

A total of 10,000 or 95 per cent of Ohio firms employing 100 or more persons are enrolled in the payroll savings plan.

"This is a fine record," Mr. Morgenthau said. "I am confident Mr. Moore and the men working with him will continue to keep Ohio near the top of the list."

The new committee will merge the former war savings staff, in operation in Ohio since May 1941, and the victory fund committee, organized last summer to handle special war loan drives.

Mr. Moore has been serving as state administrator of the War Savings Staff for Ohio without compensation and will continue to serve as a $1-a-year volunteer with the new committee.

House Committee Asks Single Control Over Food

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Saying that a disastrous food situation confronts "the country and the war effort," the house agriculture committee asked quick consideration of a measure to put all food problems under one man.

It submitted a report to the house saying:

"We are convinced that the chief reason for this food crisis is the confusion and chaos resulting from the fact that a multiplicity of agencies are attempting to deal with food production and distribution."

YANKS MOP UP JAP FORCE ON RENDOVA ISLE

Warships Race Among Islands Firing Shells Into Enemy Bases.

By The Associated Press

Allied naval forces in the southwest Pacific appeared unchallenged today as U. S. warships steamed deep into the northern Solomons, shelling a series of Japanese strongholds, while veteran American troops completed the conquest of Rendova island after wiping out the enemy garrison.

U. S. shore batteries on Rendova were heavily bombarding the Japanese air base at Munda, New Georgia island, seven miles away.

A bulletin from Admiral William F. Halsey's headquarters announced today that 123 Japanese planes had been blasted out of the skies over the New Georgia islands Wednesday and Thursday against a loss of 25 U. S. planes and 15 pilots.

Twenty-two enemy aircraft were destroyed Thursday, a communique said, after 101 had been knocked down the day before as the enemy apparently threw every available aircraft into an attempt to break up the American thrust.

At Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, a spokesman said tonight (Australia time) that there was nothing further to report from the New Guinea or Solomon fronts. From this it was assumed that all operations were proceeding satisfactorily and on schedule.

Gen. MacArthur's command said allied warships pounded the enemy at Munda and Vila, on nearby Kolombangara island, and boldly paraded into the heart of the enemy's northern Solomon defenses to attack the Faisi area.

Faisi is a village on the Shortland islands, 30 miles southeast across Bougainville strait from the big enemy base of Buin on the southern tip of Bougainville island.

There was no sign of the Japanese fleet sallying forth to battle in the four-day-old allied offensive.

Dispatches said allied casualties in the Solomons had been light despite the hazards.

Imperial Tokyo headquarters again broadcast fantastic claims, asserting that Japanese forces had sunk six allied warships and three transports, damaged five other vessels and shot down 77 planes in the battle of Rendova island Wednesday and Thursday.

The enemy claims, sharply conflicting with acknowledged allied losses, said the ships destroyed included a cruiser, four large destroyers and a small destroyer. Another cruiser, a destroyer and three transports were listed as damaged.

Tokyo admitted the loss of only 31 Japanese planes in scoring these purported successes.

The Navy announced yesterday that a single allied vessel, a transport was lost while American troops consolidated their hold on Rendova island across from the enemy base at Munda, New Georgia, other U. S. soldiers surged forward into the jungles of New Guinea on the left flank of the 700-mile allied offensive area.

Dispatches said sea-borne Americans who swarmed ashore at Nassau bay without losing a man were meeting resistance as they struck inland toward a junction with Australian forces in the Mubo area, eight miles away, but details were lacking.

Nassau bay lies only 12 miles south of the large Japanese base at Salamaua, New Guinea.

Australian patrols also moving toward a junction with the Americans killed 26 Japanese and wounded many others en route, a communique said.

U. S. Troops Turn Artillery on Jap Air Base at Munda

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, July 2—Artillery shelling of the big Japanese air base at Munda in the central Solomons, destruction of 123 enemy planes and the consolidation everywhere along a 700-mile front of allied gains under a canopy of bombers and fighters were announced today as successes in the as yet young Pacific offense.

Never before in this war has this area witnessed such coordinated blows of power, speed and surprise struck by the Navy, ground troops and airplanes under the supreme command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

In the two sectors of action, New Guinea and the Solomons, the most immediate progress was reported for the eastern arm of the two-pronged drive.

Today's communique disclosed that the United States forces which landed Wednesday on Rendova island had destroyed the small Japanese garrison there by midday and within two hours after debarking from barges were firing shore batteries at the Munda air base five miles away.

Seizure of the only harbor in the New Georgia sector, Viru, 30 miles from Munda, also was announced. Hard fighting preceded capture.

Tonight a spokesman for General MacArthur said there was nothing further to report from either the New Guinea or the Solomons fronts. From that statement, it was assumed here that all and not sufficiently take into account the statute which provides for the different qualities of treason.

The White House statement said President Roosevelt considered Stephan's crime of harboring and assisting an escaped German prisoner of war far less serious than the crime for which six Nazi saboteurs paid with their lives in Washington, the other to 30 years at hard labor.

Boastful of Axis Victory

Stephan boasted when arrested that he'd never die on the gallows, that the Axis would win and that Hitler would save him.

Arrangements for his execution, which would have marked the first time the federal government has exacted a life as the penalty for treason, had been completed.

Strong pleas for commutation of sentence were presented to the President. Largely they were based on a contention that capital punishment was too severe a penalty for the crime—harboring and assisting a German prisoner of war who escaped from a Canadian detention camp and who turned to espionage as he subsequently made his way from Stephan's home to San Antonio, Tex.

Mr. Roosevelt took the position that Stephan's treason did not come from a plan "maturely initiated by him." The White House statement noted that the escaped German prisoner from Canada was put in touch with Stephan after reaching Detroit and that the prisoner said he was trying to escape to rejoin the German armed forces and was assisted by Stephan in proceeding to another place.

No Question of Guilt

The statement said there was no question in Mr. Roosevelt's mind that Stephan was, and probably is, pro-German or pro-Nazi, it said.

"His treason, however, was not part of a preconceived plan. His treason bore something of a parallel to murder in the second degree or manslaughter in the first degree.

"Therefore, his case was less of an offense than the case of the saboteurs last year."

The text of the White House statement:

"The President has commuted the death sentence of Max Stephan of Detroit to imprisonment for the term of his natural life. The man was properly convicted of treason. He was guilty.

"The statute provides the death penalty, or at the discretion of the court, imprisonment for not less than five years, together with fine. Thus the statute definitely contemplates with respect to the sentence variation of different qualities.

"In the case of the saboteurs who landed from German submarines—members of the German armed forces but wearing civilian clothes—a mature plan was evolved in Germany, executed by the men in question and to be carried out in detail in the United States. Their offense was, therefore, akin to a carefully planned murder in the first degree. Six of them were executed and one was given 30 years at hard labor.

"In the case of Stephan however, his treason did not come from a plan maturely initiated by him. A German prisoner who escaped from Canada and was put in touch with Stephan after reaching the city, stated that he was trying to escape in order to rejoin the German armed forces and was assisted by Stephan in proceeding to the next place. There is no question in the President's mind that Stephan was and probably is, pro-German or pro-Nazi.

His treason, however, was not part of a preconceived plan. His treason bore something of a parallel to murder in the second degree or manslaughter in the first degree.

"Therefore, his case was less of an offense than the case of the saboteurs last year."

"The President believes that the sentence imposed by the court was too severe in that it did not sufficiently take into account the statute which provides for the consideration of different qualities of treason. Stephan will go to prison for life, and the President hopes that no one of his successors will commute that sentence."

Official word of the commutation was transmitted to officials in charge of the execution by Ugo Carusi, executive assistant to the attorney general, by telephone from the White House.

Carusi, who had been waiting for the President's decision, immediately called U. S. Marshal John J. Bare at Detroit and Warden C. J. Shuttleworth at Milan.

Roosevelt Still Southern Democratic Choice for '44

GEORGE GALLUP
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., July 2—Although President Roosevelt is frequently criticized by Democratic political leaders, his standing among the rank and file of southern Democratic voters as a candidate for 1944 is virtually as high as it was four years elsewhere.

In a recent periodic check-up on the popularity of various candidates who have been suggested for the Democratic nomination, the Institute finds that Roosevelt is the choice of 80 per cent of the Democratic voters in the South, as against 83 per cent of Democrats throughout the nation as a whole.

The margin of preference for him over his nearest rival is four times greater than the combined vote for six other men who have been discussed as possible Democratic standard bearers for next year.

Mr. Roosevelt's second choice of Southern Democratic voters is one of their own men, James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, the War Mobilization Director. He outranks Henry A. Wallace in popularity with southern Democrats, although Mr. Wallace is second to President Roosevelt in the choice of Democrats throughout the nation.

In conducting its survey among Democratic voters the Institute handed each respondent a list of seven men, including the President, who have been talked about recently as possible Democratic candidates for 1944. Each voter was asked:

"Which one of these men would you prefer as the Democratic candidate for President next year?"

The vote of Southern Democrats is as follows:

Roosevelt	80%
Byrnes	8
Wallace	6
Farley	3
McNutt	2
Douglas	1
Winant	*

* Less than 1 per cent.

It is entirely possible, of course, that continued criticism of President Roosevelt's handling of domestic policies such as labor, the food crisis, and the price control structure may have political repercussions on the South, as elsewhere.

But judging from the results of the survey, it would take a marked shift of sentiment to make any noticeable dent in the President's standing among southern voters.

Talent Sought for Soldier Shows at Camp Millard Near Bucyrus

Marion Groups Alrady Assisting in Series of Entertainments at Camp, But More Are Needed.

A plea for entertainers—amateur, professional or otherwise—was issued jointly this week by Army officials stationed at Camp Millard in Bucyrus and a citizens committee composed of Bucyrus business men.

While USO shows visit the camp on an average of twice a month, additional entertainment is sought to bolster the morale of 2,300 men. Because of inadequate theater accommodations at Bucyrus and because of the terrific schedule being maintained at the Bucyrus cantonment, outside talent must be found.

Already entertainers from Mansfield and Tiffin have assured camp officials and civilian workers that they will supply one show a week for as long as the need for entertainment exists. Twice a Marion group of dancers and singers headed by Miss Jayne Melby, dancing instructress, have appeared at Camp Millard. On their most recent appearance they were accompanied by Miss Marilyn Meseke, who conducts classes in various types of dancing.

Miss Meseke hopes to take several members of her classes to the camp in the near future.

Visit in Marion

In Marion this week to line up possible entertainment was Capt. Stanley A. Worgan, special service and public relations officer at the camp, and Larry Moore, Bucyrus business man.

"Because there are no Army provisions for paying for entertainment for service men, the only payment we can offer is the thrill of visiting an Army camp, riding in Army vehicles, visiting with Army personnel, both enlisted and commissioned men, and occasionally eating in Army mess halls," Capt. Wegan said.

Transportation to and from the camp will be furnished by the Army for any group of entertainers interested in appearing on a program in the interest of servicemen, Capt. Worgan said.

Groups interested in appearing at Camp Millard are advised to contact Capt. Worgan. Schedules for appearances will be made at the convenience of the entertainers, Capt. Worgan said. Usually the programs begin at 8 o'clock and normally last an hour or an hour and a half.

"A show staged by one, two or three persons may be just as good as one in which several persons appear," Capt. Worgan said in urging small groups to appear on camp programs.

On Old Fairgrounds

Camp Millard is located in what formerly was the Crawford county fairground. It is the only camp of its kind in the country—given over entirely to the repair and building of railroad equipment. At present there are three battalions made up of a total of 2,300 men at the camp.

Since the outbreak of the war two units have been sent overseas. One has been decorated for its work in the success of the North Africa operations. The camp's new commanding officer, Col. Frank E. Cheshire, recently returned to this country after making an inspection of military railroad work in England. Col. Cheshire is Camp Millard's first post commander. Previously in charge at the camp were men of the same rank who served as battalion commanders.

The main section of the camp centers in the old New York Central roundhouse.

Mid-West Near Cut in Gas Allowances

WASHINGTON, July 2 — Secretary Ickes said yesterday the midwest was closer to tighter gasoline consumption curbs than ever and declared the Pacific coast probably would be restricted more severely, too, before the end of the year.

Ickes told a press conference that opening of the Big Inch pipeline's eastward extension within the next two weeks would bring the midwest still nearer to sharper restrictions without easing the drastic curbs now imposed on eastern motorists.

He added that declining crude oil production in California, plus heavy military demands on that state's output, will almost certainly lead to a deficiency of oil in the west coast before the end of the year that "could, and probably would, mean more severe rationing there."

There's a $100 War Bond in your gasoline tank

And enough in the tanks of all American motorists to buy a billion dollars' worth of heavy bombers to help blast our way to victory

THAT'S RIGHT. It's there in your tank—a crisp, new $100 War Bond—just as surely as if you unscrewed the cap and lifted it out.

What's more, there's a War Bond like it in the gas tanks of over ten million other cars with "A" and "B" stickers on their windshields. Enough to buy a billion dollars' worth of War Bonds. Enough to put an additional 3,000 heavy bombers in the skies over Germany and Japan.

Figure it out for yourself. You used to drive around 10,000 miles a year. With an "A" book, that's down to less than 3,000. And that 7,000 miles you won't be putting on the speedometer means more than 400 gallons of gasoline you won't be putting in your tank.

The saving? Enough to buy that $100 War Bond.* An extra bond—in addition to those you're buying regularly with 10% of your pay check.

Seems kind of appropriate, doesn't it, to use the money you're saving on gasoline to help give a lift to our boys on the road to Berlin and Tokyo?

High School Pupils Help Fill City's War Labor Gap

Nearly 300 Placed on Factory or Clerical Jobs Through Employment Office; 80 Per Cent Over Past Years.

By CHARLES H ELLIOTT

Marion's high school boys and girls are busy and valuable citizens of their community this summer. Practically every industry, and many stores and offices in the city are employing youngsters in one capacity or another for vacation jobs.

A total of 273 pupils have been registered and placed by the United States Employment Service office for summer work. Of this number, 206 have been boys and 67, girls. Never in the history of Marion has summer time employment of high school students reached such a high mark.

Fred B Scherff, head of the local United States Employment Office, estimates that placements of school pupils through his office this summer is 80 per cent higher than last year.

The reason for this sharp upswing is due entirely to World War II and its effect on the manpower situation everywhere. Marion county is in a critical labor market and many unfilled employment demands have resulted from that fact. Therefore, this summer in order to produce the material needed for the war effort, Marion employers have broken down formerly rigid specifications as to personnel qualifications.

Relieve Serious Shortage

The great number of youthful workers has temporarily solved the manpower shortage problem in Marion county. The young workers are taking over the lighter and less skilled positions in local concerns in order to give more experienced and mature men an opportunity to perform the more important tasks.

The war has necessitated a drastically upgraded employment scale in industries in Marion as well as all over the country. Semi-skilled jobs have taken over; scores of skilled men who have moved to large war plants in cities like Detroit and Cleveland. There is therefore an acute shortage of skilled workers in Marion, labor officials report.

In order to maintain profit, low schedule men in related occupations have been upgraded into skilled posts. Most plants have outlined a training program in their factories in order to give such related workers sufficient training in unfamiliar occupations. That is where the high school workers come in. They replace the workers who have been upgraded and thereby aid greatly in avoiding a serious labor problem.

146 in One Factory

One local factory has hired 146 of the total number of pupils. Those youthful workers constitute a sizeable part of the employee of this large industry.

Most high school students registered at the USES office early in June. Since then, the student labor files of the local employment bureau have been depleted. Just as fast as the USES can obtain any registrants, they place them in some local concern.

Local business and industries which have hired boys and girls for vacation work through Mr. Scherff's registration list are: Marion Steam Shovel, Pollak Steel, Marion Metal Products, Defiance Pressed Steel, Osgood, The Marion Engineer Depot, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Hunkin-Conkey Construction, Fairfield Engineering, City Ice and Fuel, U. S. Rubber, Marion City hospital, and finally the local employment office itself.

Four city schools and 13 county high schools have furnished the student workers for these concerns. Greatest number naturally came from Harding High school, which as an average enrollment of over 900.

Work done by the high school laborers in these concerns ranges from clerical work in offices to light assembly and construction work in factories.

Types of Work

Some of the boys are operating small drill and punch presses in a few of the plants. However, most of the student factory employes are working in shipping or stock rooms.

Most of the girls employed in Marion are doing mercantile work for downtown stores. Many others are doing clerical work in offices throughout the city. They serve as typists, stenographers, and bookkeepers chiefly but are being used in practically every form of clerical work.

Mr. Scherff reports that five high school girls are working as inspectors in plants. This job requires the utmost concentration and power of observation, two characteristics that most teen age girls do not possess sufficiently to do inspection work. However, from latest reports they are proving big helps in checking material. These girls were given a three weeks' basic training course before starting on their inspection duties.

Several Harding High boys who were enrolled in the vocational course this year obtained jobs in local factories before the close of school. Most of them are continuing in their positions at these plants this summer. Because of their scholastic training, these boys are working at the more difficult jobs that require a well rounded knowledge and skill at a particular machine.

Work at Army Depot

The Marion Engineer Depot is a specific example of a local plant that was forced to relax age restrictions in order to obtain badly needed workers. Most of the Marion high schoolers working at the Depot are athletes who desired to keep in condition during the summer months and touch-up. Latest report from the depot indicates that the boys are getting their wish in endurance-testing construction labor.

Many parents of boys working at seemingly man-sized jobs in plants have feared that their sons could not withstand the hours and nature of factory work. Although many lads at first arrived home tired and discouraged in the evenings they nevertheless have stuck to their jobs and have gradually accustomed themselves to the strenuous labor.

A labor shortage just as great as faced city industries last spring poses a serious problem for county farmers at the present time. Many rural high school pupils are working on farms this summer but even their loyal services have not been able to yet to solve the labor problem.

Farm Labor Problem

According to Orval E Bates special county farm labor assistant, about a dozen city boys have been placed on farms for full time summer work. This number is not nearly as great as was expected earlier this year. However, employment officials point out that farmers cannot compete with city industries as far as wages of employes go. For that reason, an overwhelming majority of city high schoolers have yielded to the much higher pay of the city concerns. Even some rural pupils have come to Marion this summer and received factory jobs "right off the bat."

Mr Scherff is taking steps at the present time to see that no more farm boys attempt to leave their farms for higher-paying positions in the city. He steadfastly affirms that he will not refer farm boys to jobs in the city. The farm labor shortage is critical enough, according to Mr. Scherff, without permitting valuable young and healthy workers to migrate to the city because of the magnetic attraction of "more income."

Directly related to the farm labor situation is that of the Stoops Packing Co. in Morral. This concern is one of the state's largest canners of corn. This year, officials expect about 40,000 cases to be put out. Of this number, 30,000 will go to the nation's armed forces and 10,000 to civilians.

Prepare For Busy Season

The local USES in cooperation with the Stoops company, has made extensive preparations to avoid any labor shortage in connection with the Morral concern.

Availability forms have been sent to high school pupils in the Morral district, inquiring as to the likelihood of working for the packing company. The USES has also appealed to the Christian Aid society to help the Morral company in locating workers for it.

Since corn planting season was unusually late this year because of incessant spring rains, the Stoops concern will accordingly have a late canning season, expecting to start about Aug. 8. About 50 men and boys and 30 women and girls are needed for employment there. Only working qualification is that men must be between 16 and 70 and women between 18 and 50.

For Summer Only

With all the widely diversified summer work done by high school pupils this year, high schools in both the city and county may be faced with the problem of some students not returning to their studies next fall. However, because of an agreement with employers made by Mr. Scherff before school was out, he does not believe there will be many such cases.

This agreement provided that cessation of employment of all high school pupils doing summer work would become effective immediately when school opens next autumn.

Because of this understanding, the public school system of Marion will not become demoralized because of pupils preferring to work than study. The lure of seemingly stratospheric wages might have otherwise become too great an incentive to stay on the production line.

PROGRESS MADE WITH COUNTY ROAD WORK

Half of Resurfacing Program Completed.

Approximately half of the work of resurfacing 54 miles of Marion county roads has been completed, County Engineer Walter W. Jones reported today. The work is being done by the U. S. Construction Co. of Upper Sandusky.

Among projects in the project which already have been completed are Marion-Marseilles-Waldo, Marion-Galion, Hillman-Prospect, Marion-Bucyrus, Garden Valley Road, Delaware-Cliff Holland, Bonnert street extension, Cooper-Bellaire, Marion-Edison, Linn-Upper, California-Northern, Whetstone river, Roberts, and Clarks-Northern.

Weather conditions would permit since the work began June 15, and numerous have been held. The program which is being followed in Marion county includes the patching of holes in the roadbed first of all, application of a stipulated amount of liquid asphalt next then application of stone chips last of all.

Roads in the east, southeast, south and southwest part of the county remain to be resurfaced.

In charge of the project for the contracting firm is Henry Caldwell of Upper Sandusky and Jim Johnston of Daniels street is inspector for the county.

DEDICATION SCHEDULED AT SPIRITUALIST CAMP

Included in Opening Program at Ashley.

Dedication of the Beach Temple rostrum will take place Sunday at the annual Ashley Spiritualist Camp held in Woolley park at Ashley. Sunday is the opening day for the camp, which will run through Aug. 29, H. B. Creekbaum, president of the camp board has announced.

The dedication will take place at 5 p. m. Sunday, and will be conducted by the Columbus Mediums' club. In the morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Nellie Brown, pastor of the Spiritualist Center on Neil avenue in Columbus, will lecture, and at 11 o'clock a healing service will be conducted. President Creekbaum will preside over the morning services, and in the afternoon he will present an address of welcome.

Rev. Martha Haupt, pastor of the Spiritualist church in Newport, Ky., will present a message in the afternoon. An auditorium seance at 4 p. m. will be conducted by Rev. Brown. Rev. Haupt will again lecture at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Anne K. Keiser of Buffalo, N. Y., will conduct a seance on the evening of Saturday, July 10.

Cottages and rooms are available at the camp or arrangements can be made for rooms in the village if guests desire. This season the dining hall is being opened as a community kitchen for those wishing to prepare their own meals.

Chinese Say Japs Rush Troops Into Manchuria

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, July 2 — The Chinese newspaper Ta Kung Pao declared today the Japanese had been rushing troops to Manchuria and said "it is plain as day" the enemy "is preparing to attack Siberia."

Three army commanders have recently been transferred to that area from the Pacific, the newspaper added. It also coupled a special Japanese military conference, which it said was now in session in Korea, with the Manchuria preparations.

STATE GUARD TO BEGIN TRAINING AT ZALESKI

First Units to Move to Camp July 4.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 2—Ohio's 2,000-man state guard will start summer training at Camp Zaleski in Vinton county July 4, Adj. Gen. Donald F. Pancoast announced yesterday.

The second regiment comprising units from central Ohio and commanded by Col. Earl Brannon of Columbus will go to camp on Independence day. An advance detail will go July 3.

The third regiment comprising units from northern Ohio and commanded by Col. Eugene Wolfe of Akron, will occupy the camp from July 11 to 18, and the first regiment from southern Ohio and commanded by Col. Samuel Richmond of Cincinnati will train from Aug. 1 to 8.

The first separate company, comprising Negro troops from Cleveland, and commanded by Capt. Charles Gardner, will use the camp from July 18 to 25, while the naval units from Cleveland and Columbus in command of Capt. Trafford Talmadge of Columbus will camp from July 25 to Aug. 1.

The civil air patrol is to cooperate in training maneuvers and the U. S. Army will detail a company of military police to the camp for two days in each regimental training period to instruct the guardsmen in maintaining order. Some U. S. Army officers also have been detailed to the camp to aid in the instruction.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, July 3

THIS SHOULD be a day to develop current interests and put them on a firmer and more enduring basis, mainly by attention to details. Changes may bring unforeseen progress, but in all there is need to be wise in forming definite decisions, as in spots there may be doubts or mental confusion. Social, domestic, artistic and affectional associations give pleasure.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fair opening to push desired plans and projects to a fortunate climax, largely by the employment of clever, original or unusual revisions changes or even unique tactics. These should be founded on sound reason and good sense, with adherence to principle rather than expediency, as there is hint of an obscure, illogical plan or idea failing to give satisfaction. Deceptive factors may menace. In social, domestic and romantic affiliations there should be much activity and pleasure.

A child born on this day may possess an astute, shrewd and original mentality, with much stability of character which should carry it to security and success.

ACQUITTED BY JURY

PALDING, O., July 2 — Joseph M. Cooper, 45, Detroit war plant worker, was acquitted by a jury of five women and seven men yesterday of a second degree murder charge in the June 1 shotgun slaying of O. W. "Tim" Wright, a restaurant operator, at nearby Grover Hill.

WED AT BUCYRUS

BUCYRUS, July 2—First Evangelical church was scene of the marriage Tuesday evening of Miss Ruth Irene Aller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Aller, and Petty Officer 3/C Carroll M. Spurlock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Spurlock. Attending the couple were Miss Wilma Breymaier and Donald Spurlock, the latter a brother of the bridegroom. The bride is a Bucyrus high school graduate of this June. Mr. Spurlock was graduated in 1940.

FARM MACHINERY QUOTAS UP FOR 1944

Some Increased as Much as 150 Per Cent.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2 — Congressional farm leaders said yesterday that new agricultural machinery quotas for 1944, soon to be announced by the war production board, would range up to 150 per cent of peacetime normal.

Some types of implements, however, will be limited to lesser quantities, down to 45 per cent for certain types of cultivators. The overall allowance will be about 80 per cent of the 1940-41 production and purchases.

Cotton pickers, and soybean, beet and green pea harvesters drew the biggest increase, 50 per cent above normal, legislators said.

On other equipment, these allotments were reported: wagon and truck boxes, 77 per cent of normal; sleighs, 150 per cent; buggies and spring wagons, 55 per cent; tobacco trucks, 56 per cent; horizontal type power pumps, 55 per cent; hand and windmill pumps, 85 per cent; levelers and scrapers, 45 per cent; milking machines, 60 per cent; horse shoes, 107 per cent; tractors, 41 to 82 per cent, depending on horsepower.

While more than double the 1943 allotment, the 1944 tractor quota of 149,729 of all types was described as being 24,729 below estimated minimum requirements of county boards and 133,000 below 1940-41 production and sales.

Members of an informal house food committee representing each state said the increased allotments were made possible by a WPB finding that the type of steel used in farm machinery "is not considered critical at this time" and that facilities of producers and fabricators "are not now being fully employed" because of progress of the war production program.

Prisoners Escape But Are Soon Recaptured

By The Associated Press

RICHMOND, Ind., July 2 — Overpowering a deputy marshal, two of three prisoners enroute to the federal reformatory at Chillicothe, O., escaped in his automobile but were recaptured after a short flight.

The two were Harvey Walker, 21, of Fort Wayne, Ala., and James Chrisley, 20, of Norfolk, Va., both sentenced at Indianapolis June 29 to five-year terms for driving stolen cars across a state line. They were accused of stealing 13 automobiles in Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia.

The third prisoner was Robert Young, 17, of Hartford, Conn., also sentenced to serve five years for auto-theft.

Deputy Marshal James M. Campbell said Young looped his handcuff chain about Campbell's throat but didn't get away when Walker and Chrisley, also handcuffed, thrust him from the machine near New Westville, O., and sped away. They were recaptured south of Richmond by Sheriff Ora Wilson.

NAMED COLLEGE DEAN

By The Associated Press

NEW CONCORD, O., July 2 — Charles R. Layton of Muskingum college faculty and president of the Ohio Speech association has been appointed dean to succeed acting Dean William M. French, who has accepted the presidency of Hastings, Neb., College.

Little Chats on Public Notices

By JAMES E. POLLARD

Ohio State University.

ANY GOOD REASON?

In one of the familiar parts of the marriage ceremony, the officiating minister may call upon any one who knows any good reason why the pair should not be joined to tell it or, the implication is, to keep his peace. To be sure, such an invitation is almost never accepted but this does not lessen its significance.

In this respect, the situation is analogous to that in many kinds of Public Notices, those of a public as well as those of a personal nature. With the publication of the notice as a declaration of intent, the proposed move becomes a matter of record. Any and all who have any reason to take particular notice or to begin counter steps thus have their opportunity.

It is their loss if they do not exercise it, but the important thing is to give them this chance to protect their rights. This is exactly what the Public Notice is intended to do. As the chief medium to this end the newspaper of general circulation serves another important function.

Blaming the Mirror

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT again has asked for and received permission to attack the free press of the United States through its own columns.

This time he wants the public to believe that friction in his official family is caused by newspapers which publish stories calculated to cause trouble. He also blames radio commentators to some extent, but his chief resentment is against the press.

It has not occurred to the President that this is like blaming the mirror for what is reflected in it. The press has reported no squabbles that didn't exist. It has kept its faith with the American people to keep them informed.

Mr. Roosevelt's desire for less criticism of his administration is understandable; like most human beings he is sensitive to criticism. His predecessors in the presidency have complained about the press, too, for the same reason. It is a difficult relationship to maintain.

On the whole, Mr. Roosevelt has enjoyed a somewhat better understanding of the relationship between a free press and a free government than the majority of chief executives. He has profited by this to the extent that at no time in the country's history has an administration received more comprehensive news coverage than has been given the New Deal.

But he has made the mistake of wanting all the news to be good, whether it was good or bad. He has been particularly sensitive to criticism based on news. In fact, he has come dangerously close to taking the position that his administration should be above criticism. Even the newspapers which "color" the news in his favor cannot subscribe to that viewpoint, of course.

When lesser political figures start flailing the press and "running for editor," the newspapers try to be patient, on the assumption that some politicians must resort to almost anything to get attention. The press thinks the chief executive of the United States should be above such tactics and is genuinely sorry to see Mr. Roosevelt employ them, but it will continue to do its job in the democracy, which is to report what is happening. If the image in the mirror isn't flattering, it's the image, not the mirror, that needs improving.

Where Is the Excess Buying Power?

FOLLOWING a recent meeting with Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau, congressional leaders charged with responsibility for tax legislation said "every reasonable effort" would be made to enact a tax bill this year to meet administration demands for an additional 16 billion dollars of revenue.

Meanwhile, it has been reported that the treasury, having examined the estimates of national income and purchasable consumer goods, is preparing a campaign to obtain an average investment of as high as 25 per cent in War Bonds to absorb additional excess purchasing power after living expenses and taxes have been deducted from the national income.

The prospect of additional taxes and an accelerated rate of War Bond purchase presumes the existence of a large amount of money in the hands of the people that must be diverted to government spending purposes lest it find its way, as excess purchasing power, into the spiral of inflation. This is clearly part of the official credo of fiscal management.

Yet, the official credo does not square with the public credo; the existence of excess purchasing power—an inflationary gap—is not admitted by the people who theoretically possess the money, or who theoretically are going to possess it sometime within the next few months. Obviously, persons whose incomes have not increased during the war boom and who were unable to accumulate savings or support an expanded scale of living before the boom started do not have excess purchasing power. Whatever they may have gained through inability to make purchases of some kinds has been more than absorbed by the higher prices of the things they must continue to buy.

On the other hand, persons whose incomes have increased under the war boom, the great majority of them in the working class, do not admit that they have excess purchasing power. To the extent that they have increased their margin above subsistence, which has been the experience of many of them they claim that they are entitled to maintain that margin. In many cases, in fact, they take the position that it should be widened by wage increases to compensate for higher prices.

When it is considered that taxes on the wealthy already are so heavy that even the social reform school seems satisfied, that taxes on the middle class have reached a point where investments frequently must be liquidated to meet them and that citizens once classified by the New Deal as the "lowest third" regard their increased income as a matter of right, not privilege, the whereabouts of excess purchasing power becomes a first-rate mystery—a statistical abstraction.

Perhaps that is what the congressional leaders had in mind when they spoke of "every reasonable effort" to enact a new tax bill this year.

News Behind the News

Wallace-Jones Outbreak Believed To Have Sprung from Old Private Feud.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 2—No one was really surprised at the Wallace-Jones outbreak except President Roosevelt (he said), even though it was a violation of Mr. Roosevelt's own edict (last Aug. 21) banning official wrangling in public.

It is an old private feud. The secret behind it is that Vice President Wallace put a blank check on Jesse Jones' RFC to draw any amount he wants for practically any purchase of "strategic materials"—unless Mr. Jones can find some defect in the requisition.

One of Mr. Wallace's associates has testified he expects to buy $2,000,000,000 worth of items in the next year, and already he has paid out $1,600,000,000, so he is doing a very big business, all in secret with only fragmentary reports, and under an authority which was given to him originally by an executive order from Roosevelt, not by act of congress.

In the beginning, by law of congress, Jones was doing the purchasing on recommendations from Mr. Wallace's bureau of economic warfare, but Wallace slipped down to the White House and got an executive order requiring Jones, for more than a year now, to give him any money he wants.

Opposite Viewpoints

This little private economic warfare that Mr. Wallace has been conducting largely through his assistant, Milo Perkins, really represents the extreme left New Deal element in action, while Jones and the RFC stand on the opposite New Deal pole.

One of Mr. Jones' associates has testified that neither Wallace nor Perkins go to the trouble of signing the requisitions any more, but that these drafts come from Perkins' assistant, Morris Rosenthal, or even from Rosenthal's assistant.

The un-advertised Wallace-Perkins-Rosenthal economic war lately has been subjected to inquiries from the members of the senate banking committee, the Byrd committee and some others. No funds for which Wallace has asked have been held up, some of the senators had merely begun asking questions, mostly in executive session, as to what Wallace was doing with all those billions.

Blamed Jones

This growing interest of the senators apparently was attributed by the vice president to his ancient adversary, Mr. Jones, whom he suspects of trying to regain control of his bureau.

Personally, I do not doubt that Mr. Jones could have primed some senators about the way Wallace has been running his loose end of the war, but as far as the public record shows, there is nothing to prove it. Jones' comment before the Byrd committee several weeks ago was only mildly disapproving.

Furthermore, the latest interest of the Byrd committee in Wallace was started by Senator Brooks ham, of Nevada, who did not like the way Wallace was accumulating stockpiles of metals all around the world, not because the materials were need, but to keep them out of the hands of the axis or for diplomatic favor in such places as Spain, where the price is reported to have been fixed by Spain at a figure designed to curry the favor of the Spanish government.

The Wallace-Jones war is likely, therefore, to be a long one, and an indecisive one unless congress should decide to take the whole matter out of Mr. Wallace's hands and return it to Mr. Jones, who incidentally did not do so well at it when he had it before.

Not Begun By Press

Neither this nor any of the other recently raging official controversies was either inspired or promoted by newspapers, as the President implied. No newsman asked either Wallace or Jones for a statement. They volunteered their views of each other. Likewise, when Secretary Ickes, or Under Secretaries Patterson and Forrestal denounced Rubber Czar Jeffers or other government officials in other government departments, they submitted their announcements in open press conferences.

All have been only too happy to express themselves in public—even if in violation of the President's order against public controversies.

A well recognized White House technique of long standing seems to require that whenever the President gets in a tight place publicly, he tries to push the trouble off upon the newspapers, not on any specific newspaper or columnist, but just "the newspapers."

His spot this time is as tight as he has ever occupied, but its pin-like circumference was drawn by the Chester Davis resignation and the over-riding of his Smith-Connally labor bill veto by congress, neither of which was ordered by newspapers or columnists.

The trouble lies so clearly in high administrative confusions and conflicts, it is hardly necessary for either the newspapers or the columnists to defend themselves against a blow so wide of the mark.

Rebellion in Congress

Congress Critical of Roosevelt Home Front Policies.

By JOHN GROVER

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Rapid-fire reversal of President Roosevelt's veto of the anti-strike bill brought the battle of the home front sharply into focus.

It mirrored a growing disposition in congress to differentiate between Commander-in-Chief Roosevelt, war front strategist, and President Roosevelt, director of the home front. Prospects on the war front improve daily but both house and senate evince a marked tendency to blame Mr. Roosevelt, as President, for home front unrest and bewilderment.

Law For Discretion.

It is not important, in analyzing the present situation, whether or not the Roosevelt ian home front policies have mobilized the national economy into an efficient supporting force for our military operations.

What is important is that congress believes the President's home front program has not been efficient, and proposes to substitute hard and fast law for executive discretion.

It is notable that this same congress, in the same week that saw Mr. Roosevelt's domestic program unmercifully kicked around, passed unprecedented Army appropriation measures without dissent. From a military standpoint, congress has no quarrel with the executive.

The bitterness engendered by the anti-strike bill veto, and the sharp rebukes administered in paring funds for key presidential home-front agencies, however, reflect the first major cleavage between the executive and legislative branches since the war started.

Draft Request.

The President's request for legislation to increase the draft age to 65 years, as an emergency weapon against strikes, had sour reaction in congress. Before the ink was dry, it was freely described on Capitol Hill as merely a face-saving gesture to soften the then-imminent veto.

There was much resentment, some openly expressed but nine-tenths below surface, that the President had deferred to the opinions of Philip Murray of CIO and William Green of AFL in preference to stout old supporters like Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) who urged the necessity of legal strike curbs.

Food Subsidy.

The subsequent action of both house and senate in going on record against the food price subsidy program stems in part from the anti-strike veto. The labor leaders most vociferous in opposition to the Connally-Smith bill were also loud in their praises of the subsidy plan.

The significance of Sen. Byrd's bitter comment that the presidential veto was not the act of a war leader but of a candidate running for a fourth term had a later bearing on the subsidy question.

Chief beneficiaries of the subsidy plan would be the urban populace, where lies the political strength of the labor unions. The 1942 election returns showed urban areas to be the bulwark of administration strength, while major defections occurred in farm areas.

Likewise, the chief Democratic strength in the vote to overthrow the veto came from congressmen representing farm sectors.

Mail Increases.

Finally, congressmen rather generally reported sharp increases in mail from home expressing a "do-something-or-else" attitude on the strike question. The not-inconsiderable soldier vote, which may well be a decisive factor in many congressional districts, is also "on the warpath" over strikes.

The breach between the President and congress has been in no wise healed. The resolution for congressional recess after July 4, providing for re-convening on call of congressional leaders rather than at the exclusive call of the President, was deliberate. Congress was serving notice that the day of "rubber-stamping" presidential requests is over.

Snake Story

PORTSMOUTH, Va. — A snake indirectly was blamed for a wood fire that burned over six acres of timberland in Princess Anne county.

According to Thomas E. Turner, district forester, three men were cutting timber when a rattlesnake crawled into view.

So, the woodcutters started a fire in the brush where the reptile disappeared. The blaze got out of hand and the three forgot all about the snake in their efforts to extinguish the flames.

One of the men pleaded guilty in court and was fined $10 and costs for starting the fire.

Sardinia---Rough, Valuable

A National Geographic Bulletin.

AMERICAN airmen flying high above Tunisian bases see to the north a rectangle about the size of New Hampshire thrust from the blue Mediterranean. It is Sardinia.

Only 120 miles north of Tunisia, 120 miles west of Italy, and 170 miles from the southern coast of France, the island is a ready-made steppingstone to Italy and the continent. The industrial cities of northern Italy are closer to Sardinia than to the towns of southern Italy. Corsica, Italian-held outpost of France, is only eight miles across the Strait of Bonifacio.

Loss of the island would weaken Italy by depriving it of needed supplies of dairy products and war-important minerals such as lead, zinc, and silver.

The island, 166 miles long and half as wide, has only a million inhabitants — mostly country dwellers.

Sardinia is a chip off the old block of North Africa as far as climate is concerned—hot and dry. Maximum temperatures at Cagliari and Sassari are about 98 degrees Fahrenheit, and minimums at about 38 degrees are well above freezing.

In vegetation, too, the island resembles the south shores of the Mediterranean—palm trees and prickly pear cactus, olive groves and cork trees. Roses, heliotrope, and geraniums bloom in winter and spring, but wither when summer brings parching winds from the south. There is virtually no rain in the hot months.

Rainless summers and tangled mountain systems combine to deprive Sardinia of navigable rivers. Barely a half dozen streams can be called rivers. The largest is the Tirso, winding 93 miles southwest to its marshy delta on the Gulf of Oristano.

From Cagliari can be seen the 15-mile-wide Campidano plain that runs like a corridor for 60 miles cater-cornered across the island to the lowlands around the Gulf or Oristano. This plain supplied ancient Rome with much of its imported wheat. It still yields wheat, as well as carrots, peppers, onions, artichokes, and white and purple cauliflowers.

SARDINIA has been a battle prize in most of the historic struggles for Mediterranean power. Napoleon found it so when he set sail for Egypt with 400 ships to bounce the British out of the Mediterreanean. The British captured Sardinia, Sicily and Malta and bottled him up in the eastern half of the sea. He had to slink back through the British blockade with only two ships, their lights doused.

When ancient Carthage tried to conquer the world, its brood of supermen reached for Sardinia, pushed the inhabitants back into the mountains, and established control about 500 B. C. Rome snatched it away in 238 B. C., crisscrossed it with roads.

Vandals from Africa in 456 A. D. ended Rome's 700 years of undisputed power over Sardinia. Then Saracens made it a base for raids on Italy. The merchant cities of Pisa and Genoa made it an outpost to protect their ships from Moslem pirates. The island belonged to Spanish, British, and Austrian rulers before it was ruled from Rome again. In 1720 Austria swapped Sardinia for Sicily with the Dukes of Savoy, who thereafter called themselves Kings of Sardinia. In 1861 the members of the Savoy family were practically the only Italians among the half-dozen ruling heads claiming parts of Italy; so Sardinia's king was allowed to ascend the throne of Italy.

Mighty Tough Job

Palmer Hoyt, Domestic Director of OWI, Won't Find It Feasible To Put His Cards on the Table.

By DAMON RUNYON

PALMER HOYT, the new domestic director of the office of public information, repeats what I have been telling you for months, that some of the censorship practices indulged in under the general excuse of military or naval security "smack of the thought processes of the middle ages."

Only I have not been putting it just that way. I have been saying that some of the censorship practices border on idiocy and that others may have a much more sinister design than appears on the surface.

In the main, however, I am inclined to dismiss any thought of evil intent underlying most of the practices and to attribute them to plain damfoolishness, because I have seen the same thing happen before.

Mr. Hoyt, who is the publisher of the Portland Oregonian, on leave for government service, expresses his opinion in an article written for "Journalism In Wartime," a survey which will be released soon by the American Council on Public Affairs in connection with the school of journalism of the University of Missouri.

Among other things he says if Byron Price, director of the office of censorship, or Price's assistant, N. R. Howard, could pass on every question of what is proper and improper to print, American newspapers would be happy, but of course that is impossible. Mr. Hoyt adds that the present system of applying censorship:

"Filters down through military, naval and civilian 'authorities,' many of whom are unfamiliar with the wartime censorship code. In fact there are cases where military censors have never heard of it."

I fear that Mr. Hoyt's tenure of office may be short-lived when his candor becomes known in high places in Washington, because the principles of our present wartime censorship include prohibition of public expression by officials of just such frank views as he is guilty of in his article. In general he states the absolute truth, though I am a little dubious about the happiness of the newspapers under Mr. Price and Mr. Howard.

I WOULD have to wait until I observed the smiles breaking out on the pans of newspaper publishers and editors under the rule of these gents before proclaiming them harbingers of journalistic joy. They are big newspapermen and truth compels me to state that such newspapermen, from the standpoint of the newspapers, are the worst busts in the world in censorship jobs.

It was true in World war I and it is true in this war. The newspapermen who are outstanding figures in their profession and are now in important government war positions, from Frank Knox down, or up, as the case may be, are more over-zealous in restricting, if not indeed suppressing, the news than the old line military men sometimes found as field censors acting the part of small-time czars in handling the copy of the reporters.

YET I would rather deal with one of those blokes than with an important newspaper figures in a position to tell me what I could or could not print. The military men are usually open to argument and conviction. The newspapermen censors are more arbitrary. Probably most of them are the wrong type of newspapermen to begin with and are assigned to their spots on the vague assumption that all newspapermen are alike, and without any inquiry into their professional knowledge, their editorial judgment and their tact.

I think the whole trouble with important newspaper figures in these censorship jobs is that they are inclined to lean backward against their fellows lest they be accused of partiality. The best newspapermen censors in the key positions and in the field would be experienced copy readers who might not have great individual fame but who would at least bring a little common sense into the business.

First Aid for Planes

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Features

AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE — Engine overhaul bases "equal in capacity" to any naval plane repair station in the United States are being established by the South Pacific Force to keep the maximum possible number of planes in action against the enemy.

The overhaul base development is directed by Rear Admiral Osborne B. Hardison.

The program is designed to eliminate the time-costly shipment of engines from South Pacific combat areas back to the United States or Pearl Harbor for overhaul and major repair.

The bases will take care of approximately 75 per cent of all Navy and Marine plane engine overhauls in this area.

In direct charge of one engine overhaul and repair base are Capt. N. A. Drain of Vincennes, Ind., Lt. Cmdr. J. E. Dodson of Waco, Texas, and Lt. Cmdr. S. B. (Perry) Perrault of Kansas City, Kas.

Dodson, Annapolis and M.I.T.-trained engine specialist, explains that the South Pacific Force will be prepared in future action so that engine supply and maintenance problems like those of the Guadalcanal campaign would not be encountered.

During the Guadalcanal action, Dodson says, most of the new engines and spare parts were flown in by cargo plane. These cargo planes, landing at dawn on Henderson field and subject to attack at any time, were unloaded at once and reloaded with wounded men to be flown out to safe hospitals.

"The old engines and parts were thrown on the junk pile," says Dodson, explaining there was no way to haul them out by plane or surface ship.

"As a result we fed into the South Pacific area hundreds of engines and hundreds of new engines and hundreds of new planes before we received a single one out of the area for overhaul," Dodson remarked.

The new overhaul bases are close enough so that planes can be flown directly to them for engine repair and overhaul.

Commander Perrault explained that mechanics now are being trained as specialists in specific jobs—one man to work on pistons and cylinders, one on propellors, one on instruments, one on bombsights.

"The day they come in," Perrault remarked, "they drop their bags and baggage and go right to work."

JESSE JONES CALLED BEFORE COMMITTEE

House Group To Inquire Into Row with Wallace.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Big and rugged Jesse Jones was invited up to Capitol Hill today, into the congressional spotlight searching for details of the feuding between him and Vice President Wallace.

The house rules committee asked the commerce secretary to testify, ostensibly, on a resolution by Rep. Coffee (D-Wash) proposing an investigation of financial assistance by the government for development of the shipsaw power and aluminum project in Canada.

But Rep. Cox (D-Ga), committee member, said the session likely would devote itself to an inquiry into the Wallace-Jones ruckus.

Meanwhile, Senator Bridges (R-NH) proposed that the senate military committee investigate relations between the board of economic warfare (BEW), headed by Wallace, and the Jones-directed Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC), in the purchase of war materials.

Jones himself has requested an inquiry into the vice president's charges that Jones engaged in "obstructionist tactics" against BEW's "single minded effort to help shorten this war by securing adequate stocks of strategic metals." Wallace in turn was accused by Jones of "malice and misstatements." The RFC furnishes money for BEW purchases of strategic metals.

Rep. Coffee said he wanted to learn from Jones today "why $70,000,000 was loaned, interest free," for development of the Shipsaw project in Canada, "and why it was kept secret for two years."

operations were proceeding satisfactorily and according to plan.

The Japanese attested concern for this new menace posed not only at Munda but at air bases in the northern Solomons and at Rabaul, New Britain, by pouring medium bombers, dive bombers, torpedo planes and fighters at the landing parties and at allied shipping.

"Latest advices do not indicate the total number involved in the action but 101 enemy planes were destroyed in the air combat and by anti-aircraft fire," the communique said.

"Seventeen of our planes are missing."

Allied casualties to date in the Solomons operations were said by a spokesman for General MacArthur to be light.

Air Bases Shelled

In heavy support of the Solomons operations, allied naval units and planes blasted the enemy air bases at Vila and Munda while other surface craft moved even farther up the Solomon chain to hit the Japanese on the Balance-Faisi area.

On New Guinea near Salamaua, fighting was reported without a clear indication of the progress. American forces which landed at Nassau bay, 12 miles down the coast from Salamaua, after being tossed about in the treacherous reefs so completely surprised the enemy that they did not lose a man in getting ashore, MacArthur's spokesman said.

Australian patrols in the Salamaua area were reported to be seeking a junction from a point inland with the Americans on the beach. Twelve miles south of Salamaua in the inland Mubo area, Australian patrols sought out enemy forces and succeeded in killing 26 as well as wounding many others.

Continuously striving to pin to the ground the enemy's potent air strength at Rabaul, New Britain, allied Liberators sent 22 tons of bombs down on its three airdromes Thursday, following up an attack Wednesday in which 23 tons were dropped.

Despite complete absence of reports concerning the unopposed landings off the Papuan peninsula of New Guinea on Woodlark and Trobriand islands, it was assumed early activity there would include construction of airdromes for use against New Britain to the north.

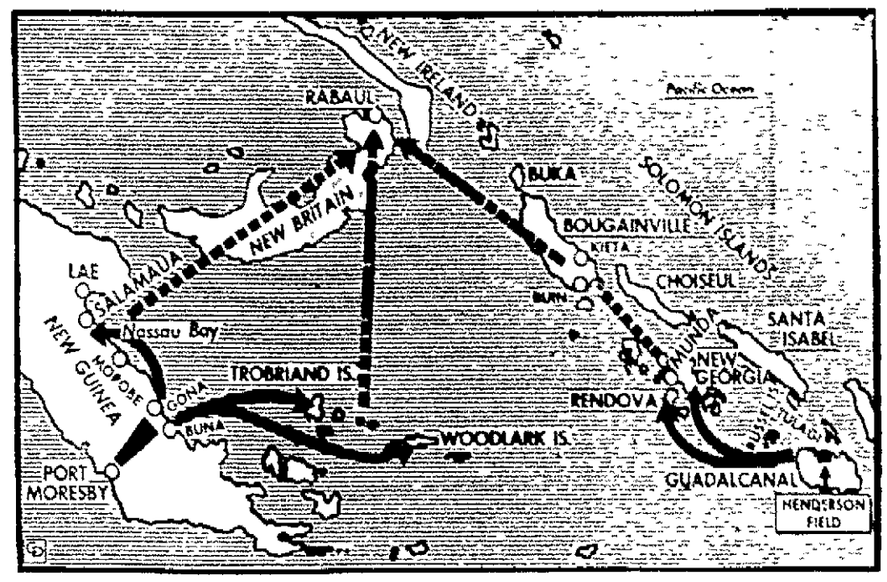
Eight Enemy Fighters Shot Down in Europe

By The Associated Press

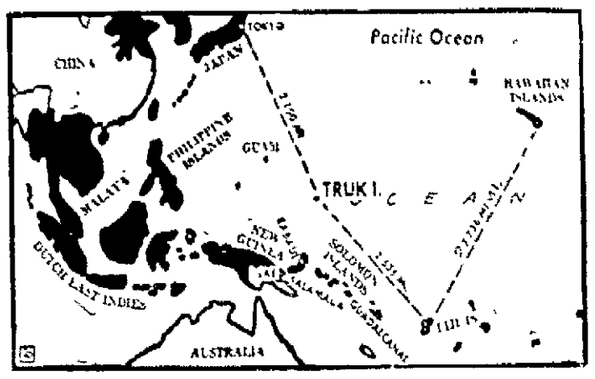
LONDON, July 2—Eight enemy fighters were destroyed by British Spitfires and American Thunderbolts in separate sweeps over northern France and the low countries late yesterday, the air ministry announced today.

The British lost four aircraft in the fighter sweep and an attack yesterday morning by fighter-escorted Typhoon bombers on an enemy convoy off the dutch coast. Three merchant vessels and four mine sweepers were said to have been damaged.

Britain passed the night without an alert, rounding out a full week since this country has seen an enemy plane.



NEW OFFENSIVE by the Allies against the Japanese in the South Pacific is believed to be preliminary to the big drive to oust the enemy from his possessions that will come if the present attacks are successful. Dark arrows on map show the present offensives and the broken arrows indicate the large Jap bases at Rabaul, New Britain, and on Bougainville island in the northern Solomons. Allied forces might then move against the Japs' most powerful Pacific bastion, Truk island, shown right.



SERVICES HELD FOR DROWNING VICTIMS

Rites Conducted for Two Marion County Youths.

Funeral services for Richard Eugene Flinchbaugh, 12, and Harlow Joseph Hindman, 15, who lost their lives at the Drake dam in the Whetstone river east of Marion Monday morning, were conducted yesterday afternoon.

Services for the Flinchbaugh boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Flinchbaugh of 504 Blaine avenue, were conducted in the Schaffner-Denzer funeral home on East Center street at 2:30 p. m. by Rev. Donald Lyon of the Claridon and Kirkpatrick Methodist churches. Burial was made in Marion cemetery.

Rites for Harlow Hindman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hindman of the Fields road, were conducted by Rev. Lyon in the Timson-Allen funeral home at Caledonia at 4:30 p. m. Burial was made in the Caledonia cemetery.

The boys went to the dam with Robert Hindman, brother of Harlow, about 9:30 a. m. Monday and when young Flinchbaugh slipped from the dam the older boy attempted to rescue him. Unable to battle the force of the flood waters both boys were pulled under.

A searching party led by Sheriff J. W. Harruff assisted by friends and neighbors of the boys' families discovered the body of the Flinchbaughs' son late Monday afternoon. The body of the Hindman boy was found Tuesday night.

Pay Increase Denied Cleveland Printers

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—Denial of a 7½ per cent wage increase sought by the Cleveland typographical union for members employed by Clevelands three major daily newspapers was announced today by the national war labor board.

Labor members dissented from this decision, which said the action was in line with the board's policy of not granting increases tending to unstabilize wages within an industry.

The WLB said data presented by the bureau of labor statistics showed the present rate paid typographical workers on the three papers already was above rates paid in the majority of cities of comparable size. It announced the Jan. 1, 1941, rate for journeyman printers was $1.35 an hour, and that a 10-cent hourly raise had been granted since that date.

Germans Claim 19 Allied Ships Sunk

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 2—The German news agency DNB declared today in a Berlin broadcast heard by the ministry of information that the axis sank 19 allied transports, totalling 156,000 tons, in the Mediterranean during June.

One allied cruiser and one submarine also were reported sunk.

This report, for which there was no allied confirmation, listed an additional 40 transports, three cruisers, one destroyer, one torpedo boat and 16 other naval vessels as badly damaged.

DNB declared 386 allied planes were shot down in the Mediterranean area during the month.

ACTION PICKING UP ON RUSSIAN FRONT

Attention Swings to Southern Fighting Ground.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, July 2—Attention swung again today to the extreme southern end of the vast Russian front with Soviet disclosure that long-range bombers had attacked the German-occupied ports of Kerch and Senaya, both on the shores of the Crimea opposite the Nazi bridgehead on the Taman peninsula.

Observers here attached considerable significance to this sudden shifting of the Red air force.

Kerch and Senaya, on the west side of Kerch strait, and Port Taman on the opposite shore, serve as bases to feed supplies to the German troops on the Taman peninsula and in the Kuban area.

The Russians announced two days ago their aircraft had bombed Port Taman two nights running.

This concentrated aerial activity was interpreted variously by military sources here as heralding either renewed German or Soviet land operations.

Despite these activities in the south, military observers still expect the main German blow to fall in the Orel-Voronezh district of the central front with the object of enveloping Moscow.

Y's Men's Club Takes Engineer Depot Tour

Members of the Y's Men's club were conducted by Col. C. B. Shaffer through the Marion Engineer Depot following a supper at the depot cafeteria Wednesday evening. About 40 members and guests were present for the tour. Guests were: John J. Stafford, Homer E. Waddell, Dr. F. A. Stengel, George Oborn, Marion Cook, John Zachman and L. W. Pfeiffer.

DIVORCED. Flower Parry Coogan (above) has been granted a decree of divorce from Jackie Coogan, child screen star of nearly 20 years ago, after testifying in a Los Angeles court that he moved her into what she termed a "glorified men's club at Monterey" after their marriage Aug. 10, 1941. Coogan, a member of the Army air forces, moved six other soldiers in "to share expenses," she testified.

BUTCHERS ORDERED FOR OPA HEARINGS

22 Called Up Today, More on Monday List.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 2 — The Cleveland district office of price administration has ordered 22 slaughterers to appear at hearings opening in Youngstown today to defend themselves against charges of violations of OPA meat regulations.

A. R. Fiorette, chief OPA district enforcement attorney, said 15 more cases would be heard in Cleveland Monday. Reporting on a recently concluded OPA investigation in the 19-county Cleveland district, Fiorette announced investigators visited 338 farm or butcher slaughters and found only 71 complying fully with OPA and food distribution agency regulations.

There were 123 instances of failure to register with OPA so that a check could be kept on the slaughterers' operations, the attorney declared. At least 26 of those who had registered had no ration banking accounts, he added.

Quota stamps were not used on wholesale cuts of 112 of the slaughters and almost one-fourth of the slaughterers were found to be operating under unsanitary conditions, while an even larger number marketed their meat without benefit of government inspection, Fiorette asserted.

The investigations were conducted in the counties of Ashland, Ashtabula, Carroll, Columbiana, Cuyahoga, Erie, Geauga, Huron, Lake, Lorain, Mahoning, Medina, Portage, Richland, Stark, Summit, Trumbull, Tuscarawas and Wayne.

FORD WORKERS STRIKE OVER CHANGE IN TIME

Shift Ordered To Start Work Half Hour Later.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, July 2—Company and union officials sought today to straighten out a working hours dispute at the Lincoln plant of the Ford Motor Co. which led to a strike involving 1,500 employes.

Ordered to start work at 4 p. m. instead of 3:30 p. m., effective Monday, employes of the afternoon shift refused to work yesterday. The plant produces tank engines and helps on B-24 bomber plane engines. Day and midnight shifts worked as usual.

Charles Silverston, committeeman for the United Automobile Workers (CIO), said the workers objected because of transportation difficulties after midnight and over the fact that their restaurants would be closed by that hour. He said the strike was unauthorized.

The original schedule called for an 11:30 p. m. quitting time. A company spokesman said the change was ordered to eliminate congestion at the shift change.

Petrillo Says He'll Stop Recording Industry

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 2—The American Federation of Musicians is no longer interested in negotiating a settlement with transcription companies and intends to stop the industry permanently, says James C. Petrillo, AFM president.

Petrillo made the assertions yesterday after a 15-minute meeting with representatives of seven transcription firms, called by labor conciliator James W. Fitzpatrick in an effort to end the 11-month AFM ban prohibiting its members from making commercial recordings.

Meanwhile, the Mutual Broadcasting System canceled the transmission of remote pickup orchestras over its network because of a dispute between the AFM and an affiliated station, WSAY of Rochester, N. Y.

MBS Program Director Dolph Opfinger said Petrillo had threatened to withdraw all remote dance bands in protest against the maintenance of a WSAY band having less than the five members union rules require.

U. S. Home Front Troubles Bring Cheer to Enemy

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

While we are awaiting developments in the war theaters I have often paid an interesting question which you might use to pass the time answering, and it goes like this:

"Doesn't Hitler know that he will be beaten in the long run?"

When that was submitted to me I replied without hesitation:

Of course he does. And so does the German high command, so they are bound right now and the cards patently are against them."

Well, then," persisted my questioner, "why doesn't Hitler quit now, and save unnecessary bloodshed and suffering for his country?"

That's not so easy to answer, is it? When you sit down to figure it out, a lot of different angles rush to the mind. The first thing that struck me was that my reply hadn't been complete and that therefore I was starting from a faulty premise.

I should have said that Hitler and his military experts know they are beaten — barring some unforeseen development in the nature of a near miracle. The odds are vastly against them, but there is always a possibility that fate might give them a break. And so long is a whisper of chance remains, just so long will the Boche hang on—unless frenzy overcomes morale.

What Encouragement?

What then is there to encourage them in holding out? In answering this it's mighty important for us to remember that any straw is a life-raft to a drowning man. In brief we may say that any development which is unfavorable to the allies is soon grabbed by the enemy as a potential means of salvation.

Just as we watch the Boche eagerly to see what hurts he has sustained and whether his morale is breaking, so he watches us. And in his despairing condition he is bound to magnify the little straws of hope.

Take this for illustration: yesterday London, in reporting on the damage done to the German industrial city of Dortmund by bombing, cited among other things that two collieries had been heavily damaged and probably put out of production. That's an important item which will help to beat Hitler.

Two collieries—my hat! We get satisfaction out of that, while at the same time our domestic news reports record that some 100,000 coal miners still are idle in this country. Birmingham tells us that this has resulted in a cut of 20 per cent in Alabama steel production. It's said the reduction will mean a loss of 2,000 tons of war-vital steel every 24 hours.

How much hope do you suppose the axis extracts from a grave situation like our coal strike? That's enough to give the shaky morale of an entire nation a fillip.

Thus do the Nazis take fresh courage from every breakdown in a vital industry in an allied country. Strikes, race riots, political squabbles, and what not in the United States are choice bits to be rolled under the facile tongue of Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels. His business is to make big issues out of little ones—and he's pretty smart.

We people here in America are casting plenty of straws into the torrent for the enemy to grasp. One of the most disquieting aspects of the situation is the development of an undoubted complacence in some parts of the country. You can see it for yourself if you look about, but I refer you to the staggering statement made by Lt. General Brehon Somervell, commanding general of the Army service forces, in the current issue of the trade publication Mill and Factory for specific evidence of this.

The general said that the Army was so short of weapons and materiel that equipment employed in training soldiers was being sent abroad for combat use. He stated that the May output for the Army's supply program was $106,783,000 under the month's quota of $1,600,841,000.

That's a bad score, and the reasons for it are shocking. General Somervelle attributes the drop to several factors, including floods, labor shortages and turnover, work stoppage, but "by far the greater part of the failure was due to the psychological let-down — the over-confidence that has swept the country with favorable news from the battle front."

In short, we are suffering from what the general describes as the "sedative effect" of good news from the war theaters. We should not delude ourselves with the idea that the Boche don't know this, for their agent are everywhere.

It looks decidedly as though it were time for an offensive on the home front.

Ex-Governor and Aid Face Bribery Charges

By The Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 2—Former Gov. Leon C. Phillips and Robert R. Fitzgerald, his pardon and parole officer, were charged today with criminal conspiracy and bribery in a parole case.

County attorney George Maskovsky, who filed the charges, alleged that each received $500 from $8,000 which W. A. Strong, a former legislator, was convicted of receiving from Mrs. J. W. Eisminger. Her husband, an Oklahoma City osteopath, was paroled in February, 1942, from the state penitentiary where he was under life sentence for murder in an abortion death.

Phillips, who with Fitzgerald testified at Strong's trial that they received no part of the $8,000, said today the criminal charges were part of a campaign by political enemies to "smear me."

ITALIANS URGED TO STICK TO END

People Told There's No Advantage in Quitting.

By The Associated Press

BERN, SWITZERLAND, July 2—Powerful Fascist Italy, taking a new look at the campaign [illegible] appeared today to be developing the theory that Italy has nothing to gain by a separate peace and her only course is to resist to the end.

No less an authority than Virginio Gayda, Italy's best known journalist and a Fascist party spokesman, hammered home this idea in an article in the Giornale D'Italia which apparently reflected concern over allied attempts to convince the Italian people they would do well to get out of the war now.

"An eventual exit of Italy from the war—that is, the conclusion of a separate peace, which would never succeed would in no way free the Italians from the war, its tragedy and destruction," Gayda wrote.

While making no direct reference to Germany, Gayda declared that in the event Italy made a separate peace the remaining belligerents would make Italy a battleground.

Gayda's article was a straightforward exposition of the theme which the Italian press has been harping on daily—that no matter what the Italian people wish they have no recourse but to fight and that their only hope is to string along with Fascism.

Popolo Di Roma said the Italian people were "impatiently awaiting the first enemy landing attempt," adding that "less depends on the first action than on the various actions which will follow the landings."

President Signs Huge Bill To Finance Army

WASHINGTON, July 2—The $71,500,000,000 "decisive war bill" was signed into law today by President Roosevelt, giving the war department three times as much money to spend toward victory in the next 12 months as the entire cost of the last World war to the nation.

More than $50,000,000,000 is provided in the vast measure for Army aviation, including purchase of 89,710 planes.

The President acted promptly, the senate having completed congressional action only Wednesday night.

U. S. TO STOP FARM LABOR RECRUITING

State Agency To Provide Funds To Carry On.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 2—The United States employment service agreed today to continue farm labor recruiting activities in the state with the end of Ohio agricultural extension service funds, subject to the approval of Washington officials.

H. C. Ramsower, extension service director, said $17,025 would be available for USES cooperative work in the state program, with additional sums later if needed. Final approval of the plan is awaited from the federal extension service and the war manpower commission in Washington.

Monetary assistance was offered the USES after Director Wade Hammond of the employment service in Ohio said the WMC would refuse funds for agriculture recruiting or placement work after July 1.

The proposal would provide the USES $1,140 for personal services and $300 for other expenses in Summit county, $960 and $300 in Ross county, $810 and $225 in Washington county, and $1,140 for personal services in Franklin, Cuyahoga, Mahoning, Stark and Lucas counties.

A total of $7,800 would be available for other counties at the discretion of individual county agents, subject to post-audits by Ramsower.

Malta-based fighter-bombers attacked the Biscari airdrome in Sicily, a Valletta communique said.

RAF planes of the Middle East command again bombed a medium-sized axle transport which was found lying heavily to port and blocking the Levkas channel as a result of previous direct hits and shot up an enemy schooner off the west coast of Greece yesterday, a Cairo communique announced.

Successful attacks on two enemy schooners by British coastal planes of the northwest African command Wednesday were officially announced here.

All operations of the northwest African, Middle East and Malta commands were reported carried out without the loss of a plane.

FINAL SESSIONS HELD BY EPWORTH SCHOOL

Parents and Friends Attend Last Bible School Program.

A program representing "a typical day in Vacation Bible school" was presented Thursday night as the closing feature of a three-week Vacation Bible school held by Epworth Methodist church. Miss Margaret Huffman was director of the school.

A large number of parents and friends of the 110 registered pupils and teachers of the school attended. An average attendance of 103 and average daily offering of $2.32 was reported by the student council.

An opening worship service in which a number of children took part was followed by songs and Bible verses given by the kindergarten group. The primary group presented "Children from the Bible" in costumes and showed work done in connection with Bible study in classes.

Songs and Bible memory work illustrated the work done by the junior department, and pupils presented an altar built during craft periods by junior boys. Fastened on the altar made as a gift to the junior department of the Sunday school for use in worship services, are figures of Jesus and the 12 disciples carved from wood.

Pupils of the intermediate department presented Scripture and song lessons and Bible stories.

Certificates were presented to pupils as awards for regular attendance and certificates bearing gold crosses were gifts to teachers and workers in the school in recognition of their service. Awards were made for the sale of lawn fete tickets. Parents were given opportunity to see handicraft done by the children. This morning pupils returned to the church for a picnic in the social rooms and at Our House.

Civilian Meat Supply To Stay on Short Side

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2—The agriculture department said today prospects were encouraging for increased production of meats during the last half of the year, but it held out little hope that civilians would get larger rations.

The department said slaughter of hogs, particularly in the fall and early winter, should exceed materially last year's July-December total, and that beef cattle marketings were expected to be stepped up considerably.

"Supplies available for civilians, however, will continue smaller than last year," the survey said, because military and lend-lease demands are greater.

Former Marionite and Los Angeles Man Wed in West

MISS GERALDINE CARSON of Los Angeles, Cal., formerly of Marion, became the bride of George A. Reed, son of Los Angeles, Saturday, June 26, according to a report from The Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale, Calif., where the ceremony took place.

Rev. James Caldwell of the Community Congregational church officiated and the bride was given in marriage by O. B. Wells. Pianist Hal King played "On Promise Wings" and "Because."

The bride was costumed in a white marquisette, floor length gown and lace bodice. She wore a fingertip veil and carried a bouquet of white gladioli and chrysanthemums. Miss Berva Plymale, who served as maid of honor, was attired in a blue lace-trimmed marquisette gown, with which she carried pink roses and blue delphinium.

The bridegroom's brother, Milo C. Reed was best man, and John Schultz and James Knutsen seated the guests.

A reception followed at the home of the bridegroom in Los Angeles. When the couple left on a trip to Lake Arrowhead Calif., the bride was wearing a Navy suit with matching accessories. The new Mr. and Mrs. Reed are now at home at 231 Vendome street in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Carson of Middleport, O., moved from Marion to Los Angeles last fall. While here she was employed by the National City Bank and was active in the Youth Fellowship group at Epworth Methodist church. She is now employed at the Union Bank & Trust Co. in Los Angeles.

Her husband, son of Mrs. Mary L. Reed of Los Angeles, is employed by the Byron-Jackson Co. in Vernon, Calif.

Miss Steers And Harry J. Barnhart Wed in Chicago

Miss Jessie Steers of Chicago and Harry J. Barnhart, president of the Marion city board of education, were married in a quiet ceremony at the Methodist Temple in Chicago Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The service was performed by Dr. Carl Goff, pastor of the church.

The couple left on a trip to Mexico and are expected to return to Marion in about a month.

Miss Steers has been librarian at the Field Museum in Chicago. She is known to a number of Marion residents.

They were unattended at the ceremony, but friends present included Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Smith of Franklin street.

Mr. Barnhart is a former executive of the Osgood Co. He retired several years ago.

He has been a member of the school board for 11 years, and has been president of the board for a number of years.

His home is on Vernon Heights boulevard.

Lutheran Group Meets at Galion Parish House

Special to The Star

GALION, July 2 — A patriotic theme was carried out in a program and the refreshment hour when Mrs. Walter Sargel entertained the Frauenverein at Peace Lutheran parish house Thursday. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Ida Linsemann, and the devotions were conducted by Rev. Philip E. Auer. Articles were read in German by Rev. Auer. The musical features included songs sung by Elaine Berry with Genevieve Shumaker at the piano. Group singing of patriotic songs with Miss Shumaker accompanying, brought the program to a close.

Wanted: Fifty Million Fur Coats

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

There are some 50,000 women in America, and most of them intend to buy a new fur coat this year.

The reason is that the family car is all paid for now, and all those other gadgets which used to eat such a hunk out of the budget—new refrigerators, radio, vacuum cleaners — are out for the duration. So there's a surplus in the family purse, and mom has always wanted a good fur coat, anyway—not a raccoon basement number, but something really super.

Window Shopping

So mom and pop are window shopping these days, taking their time and looking over all entries, and they'll end up by investing in something handsome in the way of Persian lamb, beaver or maybe even mink.

After all, says mom, it isn't often that you have money left over after paying the grocery bill, and what could be a better investment?

All this explains why fur dealers are working 24 hours a day to supply the demand for luxury furs, why business is booming in the fur department of every store, and why wartime America has become suddenly and terrifically fur-conscious.

Any Price

Shoppers may spend anywhere from $50 to $25,000 for a fur coat this season. The $50 model will be coney (rabbit to you) and the $25,000 one sable or chinchilla. In between, in the $500 to $1,000 class, are handsome new styles in beaver, Alaska seal, high quality Persian lamb, nutria and even mink. The latter, however, is hard to find at $1,000, the better kins selling at from $2,000 up per coat.

Styles this year are smooth, casual, designed to slip on easily over suits or step out with evening gowns. The favorite style is loose, boxy, three-quarter length, with wide straight sleeves, roomy armholes, practically no collar, and a tuxedo or straight closing. There's a Chinese look to many of the new Persian lamb and broadtail coats, with collarless necklines and straight, loose cut, often with side vents.

That's the situation up to now on the American fur front, and it looks like a banner year.

SYMPHONY IN MINK: New short length in Canadian ranch mink (left), designed by Maximilian, has distinctive patch pockets, tuxedo draping. Same designer manipulated skins in fabric-like manner to produce highly styled finger-tip Mandarin mink, right.

ONE WORLD—by Wendell Willkie

The Star presents this condensed version of ONE WORLD in ten installments, to be followed by a new and exclusive article by Mr. Willkie as the final installment.

Chapter Six

The Soviet Union covers an enormous territory, bigger than the United States, Canada, and Central America combined. The people are of many different races and nationalities, speaking many languages.

In a Siberian republic called Yakutsk, I found some answers to some of the questions Americans ask about Russia.

Yakutsk is a big country. It is twice as big as Alaska. It has not many people, only about 400,000 now, but it has resources enough to support a great many more.

The Soviets have begun to develop this country, and what I saw of their efforts seemed to me far more important, to the world and to America, than the political debate which has been carried on, both in Moscow and in New York, for so many years.

September Snow

The first September snow had already coated the airfield when our Liberator bomber landed at Yakutsk, capital city of this republic.

A man stepped forward from the small group standing at the edge of the field where our plane stopped.

"My name is Muratov," he said. "I am president of the Council of People's Commissars of the Yakutsk Autonomous Soviet Socialist Republic.

Here an elderly scholar welcomes Willkie to Sinkiang, or Chinese Eastern Turkestan. Willkie was cordially received by huge crowds at many of the points he visited and about which he writes in "One World."

"I have instructions from Moscow, from Comrade Stalin, to take care of you while you are here, to show you anything you want to see, to answer any questions you may care to ask. Welcome."

I thanked him and explained that we were stopping only briefly as there was still time that day to cover the next thousand-mile lap of our journey.

"You are not going on today, Mr. Willkie," he replied, "nor probably tomorrow.

"The weather reports are not good and it is part of my instructions to assure your safe arrival at your next stop, or I shall be liquidated."

I found in this distant Siberian town of Yakutsk, with its 50,000 residents, a clean, well-staffed library containing 550,000 volumes. The records showed that 100,000 people—many had come from the countryside around — had used books during the last nine months.

I wondered about the amusements of the people.

"Have you a theater?" I asked Muratov.

Performance

He had, and we went to it later in the evening. He told me the performance began at 9 o'clock. After dinner we drank vodka and talked, and I suddenly realized that it was already after 9.

"What time did you say the show started," I asked him.

"Mr. Willkie," he answered, "the show starts when I get there."

Muratov showed me at the museum samples of the real gold which is now the greatest wealth of Yakutsk, and of the "solf gold" —or furs—which is its second most valuable product.

Among the sables, foxskins, and bearskins were the soft, small pelts of Arctic hares and white squirrels.

These smaller animals, he explained, must be shot through the eye if the skin is not to be spoiled.

Polite Skepticism

When I expressed a polite skepticism of the economic possibilities of a profssion in which you must shoot squirrels invariably through the eye, Muratov stood his ground.

All Yakutsk hunters, he said, when they are mobilized into the Red army, are so good that they are classified automatically as snipers.

During the day, too, we were aware of the war. Though Yakutsk is 3,000 miles from the front, we found simple people, most of whom had never seen a German in their lives or traveled west of the Ural mountains, talking earnestly of "the war for the fatherland."

"There are many things in Russia we can admire—it's vigor, its vast dreams, its energy, its tenacity of purpose."

I asked Muratov what he was doing about the education of the people.

"Mr. Willkie," he said, "the answer is simple. Before 1917, only 2 per cent of all the people of Yakutsk were literate; 98 per cent could not read or write. Now the figures are exactly reversed.

"Morever," he went on, smiling cheerfully at me, "I have now received an order from Moscow to liquidate the 2 per cent illiteracy before the end of next year.

Once more that term liquidate. It is constantly used in Russia. It can mean the accomplishment of a set task, or it can mean imprisonment, exile or death for incapacity, failure of deliberate obstruction.

Communist Party

The most attractive building in town housed the local Communist party headquarters.

I had often wondered how in actual practice three million Communist party members—that is all there are in Russia, about one and one-half per cent of the population — could impose their ideas and their control on 200 million. Here in Yakutsk I began to understand the process.

There was no other organized group in the town; no church, no lodge, no other party. Approximately only 750 people, one and one-half per cent of Yakutsk's 50,000, belong to the Communist party and are members of the town's one club.

But these 750 include all the directors of factories, managers of collective farms, the government officials, most of the doctors, superintendents of schools, intellectuals, writers, librarians, and teachers.

In other words, in Yakutsk as in most communities in Russia, the best-educated, the most alert, the brightest and ablest men of the community are members of the Communist party.

Each of these Communist clubs all over Russia, is part of a tight-knit national organization, of which Stalin is still secretary general.

One can understand why he still prefers that title to any other which he holds. For this organization keeps the party in power. Its members are the vested-interest group. That is the answer.

International Trade

Muratov had obviously been planning in terms of international trade.

"When this war is over, you in America are going to need wood and wood pulp. And we're going to need machines, all kinds of machines.

"We're not so far away from you, as soon as we get the Arctic sea route open. Come and get it; we'll be glad to swap."

These people have developed an enthusiasm and a self-confidence which reminds me repeatedly of the romance of our own western development.

The industrialization of Russia will require a limitless amount of American products, and Russia has unlimited natural resources that we need.

The Russians, like us, are a hardy, direct people and have great admiration for everything in America, except the capitalistic system.

And frankly, there are many things in Russia that we can admire—its vigor, its vast dreams, its energy, its tenacity of purpose.

No one could be more opposed to the communist doctrine that I am, for I am completely opposed to any system that leads to absolutism.

But I have never understood why it should be assumed that in any possible contact between communism and democracy, democracy should go down.

Scott and Claridon Ditch Line Extended

The county board of commissioners yesterday approved an amended petition requesting construction of a ditch in Scott and Claridon townships on farms owned by H. J. Brooks and W. H. Knowles.

The petition was filed on May 27 and at a hearing at that time Mr. Knowles filed an amendment asking that ditch be extended on his property. At the hearing yesterday the commissioners approved the petition as amended.

White Sox Rookie Hits in 26 Games

Curtright's Batting Streak Boosts His Average to Fine .362.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Since Joe DiMaggio swept through his spectacular 56-game hitting streak two years ago every other consecutive game-hitting performance has been dwarfed into insignificance.

But a little known rookie outfielder for the Chicago White Sox, Guy Paxton Curtright, now is nursing a hot hitting streak that has reached 26 games and it rates attention from the fans not only because it is the longest of the year but because it has made Curtright currently the leading batter in the major leagues.

His average today was a glossy .362, ten points better than Babe Dahlgren of the Phillies, the National league leader, and 24 better than Vernon Stephens of the St. Louis Browns, who has been the American league pace-maker most of the spring.

Curtright is a chunky right-handed hitter whom the White Sox brought up from St. Paul this spring. He made only one hit yesterday, but this was a lusty triple and it kept his streak going although it did not figure in the Sox's 2-0 triumph over the Washington Senators.

The Cleveland Indians were given a 3-2 decision over the New York Yankees when Rookie Charley Wensloff walked two men with the bases loaded in the first inning and Catcher Ken Sears fumbled a grounder with two out in the eighth.

Detroit, outhit 12-7, nosed out the Boston Red Sox 3-2 when Ned Harris singled with the bases loaded in the ninth and the St. Louis Browns trampled the Philadelphia Athletics a little more firmly into the American league cellar with a 2-1 eleven-inning victory.

In the National league the Brooklyn Dodgers lost a wild 10-9 twelve-inning verdict to Cincinnati and missed a chance to move fractionally ahead of the idle St. Louis Cardinals in first place.

Chicago nosed out the Boston Braves 6-5 for the seventh time this season and Philadelphia divided a doubleheader with Pittsburgh. Schoolboy Rowe pitched five-hit ball to win the first game for the Phillies 6-1 and Bob Klinger nailed the second 2-1 with seven-hit hurling.

BLIND BOGEY TOURNEY IS SPLIT THREE WAYS

Dennis, Ulmer and Danner Share Low Score.

Dr. W. A. Dennis, William Ulmer, and Carl Danner split first place honors in a blind bogey tourney held at the Marion Country club Wednesday afternoon. All racked up net scores of 77.

Dennis shot an 87 medal from which a subtracted handicap of 10 gave him his 77 score. Ulmer shot 88-11—77 and Danner, 92-15—77.

About 30 participated in the bogey event which was held in the afternoon. At night, members of the club held a stag party in the club house. Dinner was served by Mrs. Andy K. Dewar, wife of the club pro.

Lowest 18 hole round shot at the club for Wednesday was an 84 made by Leo Groll, left handed linksman. John Glackin posted second low gross mark of 85.

RELUCTANT INDIANS FORCED TO TAKE 3-2 WIN FROM YANKEES

Unearned Runs Give Tribe Victory; Series Winds Up Today.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 2 — It's ladies' day at League park today but it was bargain day yesterday as the New York Yankees contributed a 3 to 2 victory to the reluctant Cleveland Indians.

The Tribesmen were awarded a pair of runs in the opening inning when Rookie Charlie Wensloff walked Buddy Rosar and Mike Rocco with the bases jammed.

Catcher Ken Sears donated the deciding tally in the eighth when he fumbled Oris Hockett's tap in front of the plate, permitting Rocco to score from third base.

The Redskins did everything possible to keep from scoring but they couldn't help themselves in the face of the Yankees' generosity. Roy Cullenbine singled and Jeff Heath doubled in the third to put runners on second and third with none out but Ken Keltner grounded out, Rosar fanned and Rocco delivered a fly.

Three bases on balls filled the sacks in the fifth and Hockett doubled and Manager Lou Boudreau walked in the sixth but the scoring punch was lacking in both stanzas.

Al Smith received credit for his second win over the McCarthymen and his sixth triumph of the season.

Chubby Dean hurls for the Indians in the series finale today against either Atley Donald or Marius Russo.

Reds and Dodgers End Series Today

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN, July 2 — The Cincinnati Reds and the Brooklyn Dodgers take to the twilight today to wind up their four-game series, which so far has proved little except that you never know what's going to happen in Brooklyn.

Elmer Riddle, final and winning pitcher of yesterday's 12 inning 10-9 Cincinnati victory, is down to throw for the Reds again today, against Kirby Higbe.

Riddle worked only the 12th inning of yesterday's merry-go-round and half-protected a two-run lead the Reds put together in their half. Elmer handed out three walks and a single to let the Dodgers creep up, then he got the next three men on pop fouls.

The Reds got to Bo-Bo Newsom for four singles and a squeeze bunt to score their two runs in the 12th.

Lonnie Frey, Cincinnati second baseman, hit his first home run of the season in the sixth.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 2—Maybe you think things are a bit dull in the sports line, but the word is that they're having a right good season in northern Africa. . . . We have this straight from Corp. Vince Murphy, occasional contributor to this column and son of Sports Editor Jimmy Murphy of the Canton (Ill.) Daily Ledger.

V-Mail—"Propably the most interesting event yet pulled off in N. Africa, excluding Rommel's bicycle act," Vince writes, "was a softball game played recently for a $2,000 pot. It seems that a news story praising a team composed of a group of former Texas softballers playing under the name of the 'Texans' was read by members of a mid-western unit whose ball club is called the 'Omvacs.' The Omvacs claimed a prior victory over the Texans and allowed they could repeat. Upshot of the discussion was the decision that each team would wager 1,000 skins on a winner-take-all basis. Partisans of both teams were quick to collect funds to back their favorites and the game drew 3,000 fans. The Omvacs took the decision 6-4, although the Texans gave them a mighty scare in the final inning when one of the Lone Star boys hoisted a mighty drive that the Omvacs' centerfielder had to take off the fence."

Nat Fleischer, historian of the ring, whose latest list shows 3,068 professional boxers and about twice as many amateurs in the armed forces, also has been hearing from Northern Africa. . . . Weekly fight shows in Tunisia have been drawing big crowds and when American soldier scrappers meet up with native boxers the boys really lay their dough on the line to back their favorites. . . .

Domestic Dept.—When Clark Shaughnessy collected his first Pitt football squad for practice the other day, he told them, "we will have as many as 10,000 pass plays." . . . And in reply to a few skeptical looks, Clark insisted that with small variations he might really approach that figure. . . . Since Pitt has only six veterans on a squad of 56, one variation likely will be the play where the coach buries his face in his hands and refuses to look until it's over.

Ben White, Veteran Driver, Races Today

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 2 — Ben White, 70-year-old trainer and driver of harness horses, makes his first grand circuit appearance of the year at the North Randall track today.

The veteran reinsman complained of dizziness on the opening day of the meeting and has been in Cleveland clinic for observation. He will pilot Director, owned by E. J. Merkle of Columbus, O., in the American stake for two-year-old trotters. The event has a value of $4,295.

HUNT IS STARTED FOR SHOTGUN SHELLS TO FIRE AT VANDALIA

It's Fellow with Own Ammunition Who'll Go Big in Grand American.

By The Associated Press

VANDALIA, O., July 2—The nation's trapshooters scurried around today in search of a case of shotgun shells — the No. 1 requisite for participation in the 44th grand American trapshoot set for Aug. 25, 26 and 27.

The big carnival, usually a 1200-target program staged over eight days, was slashed to a three-day, 600-clay event this year because of shell-shortages and travel restrictions. Ray Loring, manager of the Amateur Trapshooting association, announced the curtailment of the program, along with an innovation requiring all participants to bring their own ammunition.

A check-up around Ohio disclosed that few jobbers had shotgun shells on hand, the supply having been erased during last fall's hunting season. However, trapshooters said many marksmen had some ammunition tucked away, while retailers had rapidly-dwindling stocks.

In former years all shells fired at the "Roaring Grand" had to be purchased on the grounds, and the A.T.A. set a limit of one and one-eighth ounces of shot, and three drams of powder, both far under ordinary hunting loads.

Loring indicated that, with marksmen bringing their own ammunition, hunting loads might be permitted on the trap line this year. Trapshooting rules also call for chilled shot, but that may be tossed aside for the duration to permit the use of copper-covered shot used in some hunting loads.

Columbus Softball Team To Play Here Sunday

Lords Jewelry softballers will encounter their first big-time opposition of the season Sunday afternoon when they meet the Jeffery Manufacturing colored team of Columbus in a doubleheader on the Garfield park diamond at 2 p. m.

The Columbus team boasts a record of nine victories and two defeats in the fast Capital city softball circuit. Among the Jeffery team's victims this year has been the Ferguson's State Auditors, softball champions of Ohio in 1940 and 1941.

Manager Bob Putman expects to use Harold "Fat" Millisor on the mound in the opening tussle with Ted Anderson doing the catching. For the Columbus team, Smitty Truss will do the pitching and Rollin Kelly, the mask work. In the second game, Coxie Weiss and Joe Darnell will be the battery for Lords while Bob Edler will hurl for Columbus with Kelly again on the receiving end.

NATIONAL LEAGUE'S TOP BATTER. Ellsworth "Babe" Dahlgren, the Philadelphia Phillies' first baseman, swings at a fast ball in the style which has raised him to first place in the ranks of National league batters with a clouting average of .351. He is playing his first season with the Phillies, coming from Brooklyn four months ago. Dahlgren expects to be drafted soon.

Pierre De Lane Scores Top Honors in Battle Royal Mat Program at Armory

...ghest unadulterated ...ilations ever ...ced. Pierre De... ...heavyweight ...ance, together ...ory French-... the field in a ..., and then the ... snatched a ...rom LaBell in ...y main-go at-

From the start of their two-hour limit struggle, both fighters went according to the book. No rough stuff was introduced. But the action was severe, bone bruising for the French competitors, spine-tingling for an appreciative ring audience.

Repeatedly during the first 12 minutes of the event both fighters were accorded a round of applause for clean breaking. Not only did the two break when against the ropes but also when it appeared that little headway was being made they broke and started all over.

Reverse Holds

In the first 10 minutes of the match the speedy opponents reversed holds four times, twice reversing hammerlocks, once a wristlock and once a step-over toe hold. During this part of the match LaBell, one of the fastest men wrestling today, held an appreciable advantage over his heavier foe. LaBell weighed in at 186 while DeLane upped the scales at 189.

Because the fast French-Canadian was in the spotlight during the early stages of the fight, DeLane's win of the first fall came more or less as a surprise. A lightning-like move made possible the payoff, one second the two were locked in a terrific struggle and in the next second LaBell was being subjected to one of the Frenchman's body-crushing flying head locks. The opening set-to, lasted 12 minutes.

LaBell captured the second fall after an eight-minute grind to even the match. The win was chalked up after LaBell bowled DeLane over following a spring from the ropes. The impact sent the larger man reeling against the canvas and LaBell speedily rolled him over and onto his shoulders for an easy headstand. Three minutes before the payoff LaBell was nearly successful with practically the same procedure.

The third fall opened with a series of bounces off the ropes by both fighters. In attempting his third bounce LaBell straddled across the mat and was immediately nailed by the bulky DeLane. The third fall lasted about 30 seconds.

In the semi-final event, a 45-minute contest, Jack Reeder, pinch-hitting for Rufus Jones who injured a knee in the battle royal, and Ali Pasha battled to a draw. Neither man was able to score a decisive fall but Reeder, until last week the Purple Phantom, made Sailor Olsen, Johnny Vansky and Billy Venable look like a bunch of Little Lord Fauntleroys. Reeder, 200 pounds of former light-heavyweight champion, used everything in the books but failed to upset the bearded Hindu.

The battle royal itself lasted only 12 minutes. Reeder was first to be beaten, Buddy Knox was next, DeLane was third and the sepia-skinned Jones was fourth.

Indianapolis' Early Lead Fading Away

By The Associated Press

The Indianapolis Indians found their early-season runaway lead in the American association practically gone today.

The once high flying Indians have lost seven of their last 10 games, whittling their league lead to a half a game and bringing about a general tightening-up in the loop's pennant chase.

The Tribe lost a double-header last night to the Columbus Red Birds, 10 to 1 and 4 to 3. Second place Milwaukee muffed a chance to move in front by dropping a decision to St. Paul, 11 to 1.

Toledo grabbed a tie with St. Paul for fifth place by beating the last place Louisville Colonels twice, 5 to 4 and 1 to 0.

The Minneapolis Millers downed Kansas City, 8 to 1.

Coca-Cola, Universal Cooler Win Softball Loop Victories

Coca Cola's softballers monopolized the run making market at Garfield park Thursday night as they overwhelmed the Waldo Dodgers, 20 to 0, in the opening game of the two-team Commercial league season. Universal Cooler took advantage of three costly Commercial Steel errors in their Industrial league contest at Lincoln park to win, 5 to 4.

D. Roseberry was the siege gun in the Coke attack as he poled two long home runs and another bingle out of four trips to the plate. One Roseberry circuit clout came in the initial frame and the other in the second inning. One man was on base at the time of the first homer and two men were aboard when the distance-minded Roseberry hit the other round tripper. Fritz Walters hit another homer for Cola in the second inning.

A total of 19 hits were made by Coke and only five could be banged out by Waldo batters off Coxie Weiss, Coke hurler for the entire seven inning route. Weiss walked one while Henry and Ward, the two Waldo moundmen issued one and three free passes, respectively. Weiss fanned eight while Henry struck out none and Klingle, one.

Thusday night's easy win of the soft drinkers put that team in first place at the end of the first half of the Commercial league season. However, only two games will be played this season in the formerly strong loop.

Universal's margin of victory over Commercial was provided mainly through the unintentional cooperation of steeler inner and outer gardeners. In the four-run Universal half of the second, highest scoring stanza of the tilt, Lloyd Hart cracked a homer which accounted for two of the Cooler tallies.

This inning started off with two men reaching the sacks by virtue of clean safeties. However, these two scored unearned runs when a Commercial error gave them free access to home plate. Another error by the Steelers put another runner on the bases. Third Baseman Hart then clouted his homer to drive in the two key runs.

Commercial rallied to tie up the game going into the bottom half of the last inning. In this frame, Universal player Bigford doubled to touch off the spark that proved the game-winning factor. Once again a Commercial error let a decisive run be tallied in the scorebook. After Bigford had stolen third, he jaunted home on an error to win the game.

NELSON TOURS STEEL MILLS

Receives Pledge of 2 Million Ton Production in Next Six Months.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, July 2 — Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board (WPB) wound up a two-day tour of Pittsburgh's "Victory Valley" steel mills today after receiving pledges from labor and management to help boost steel production in the next six months by 2,000,000 tons.

Nelson and other high-ranking WPB officials launched a nation-wide "steel for victory" drive by calling upon the industry for a "renewed production effort going far beyond anything we have yet achieved."

Management's answer to the government plea was expressed by Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel Corp., the nation's largest steel producer, when he said after the party had toured four of the district's largest plants:

"What we saw today gave us faith that labor and management will meet the new production quota set by the government. This is the kind of a day that makes our enemies exceedingly unhappy."

Laborer's assurance came from Philip Murray, president of the CIO and the United Steel Workers of America, who said:

"We are behind this big push for more steel. Let the 200,000 steel workers now in the armed forces hear this message from the steel workers on the production front: 'We will not fail you.'"

Nelson told the labor-management representatives at a dinner last night:

"The country needs a new burst of productive energy that will not only carry us through to the day of unconditional surrender by the enemy, but will actually hasten that day, and we are determined to carry on. * * *

"We cannot allow ourselves to be deluded into thinking that our war production job is anywhere near an end. On the contrary, the hradest part of the production job remains ahead."

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL TO GIVE PROGRAM TONIGHT

Closing Event of Class at Trinity Baptist Church.

The Vacation Bible School that has been in progress at the Trinity Baptist church will close with a public program beginning at 7:45 tonight. The school reached an enrollment of 116 and maintained an average attendance of 96. The program will be a demonstration of many things the children have learned, including songs and memory work, note books and other expressional activities in which they have been engaged. Their hand work will be on display for inspection by the parents and friends.

The school was under the direction of Mrs. J. B. Holloway, who has served as dean, assisted by Mrs. Glen Wymer as superintendent of the Beginner department, Mrs. C. M. Corby in the Primary department and Miss Bertha Tower in the Junior department. Other helpers in the Beginner department were Misses Vivian Loyer, Eula Kirk and Miriam Secord. Assisting in the Primary department were Mrs. Harry Woodall, Miss Rhea Jean McClure and Mrs. Hazel Price. Miss Esther Van Bockern and Mrs. Carl Pfleiderer assisted with the Juniors. Several Junior High boys and girls also have given assistance in the play periods and hand work sessions.

program to reduce the cost of living. * * * it completely outlaws the recent reductions in the price of meat and butter which we instituted in order to help get the cost of living back down from the height in which it has risen in recent months.

"By this measure, the congress will compel every house-wife to pay five cents a pound more for every piece of butter that goes on her table, and to pay higher prices for every pork chop, every ounce of beef, every slice of ham or bacon which goes to feed her family.

2. "This measure will make it virtually impossible to institute any additional measures to reduce the cost of living or even to hold the line.

3. "The bill denies to the executive any power to purchase farm products for sale at a loss or to make incentive payments to obtain increased production of foodstuffs without the approval of the congress. I do not believe that the congress has had an opportunity to know or to consider how seriously it may cripple our entire food program."

Inflation Fight Shackled

Mr. Roosevelt contended that the legislation would virtually nullify the economic stabilization act of last October since, he said, the cost of living can not be stabilized effectively by the government if the cost of necessary foods can not be stabilized.

By this bill, he said, congress would "put new shackles on those whose duty it is to fight inflation," and the fight can not be won that way, he added.

Returning the bill to a congress which was discussing the possibility of overriding his veto, the President said the measure would become law only over his "strenuous objection and protest."

Unless congress leaves with the executive branch of the government the means of seeing that additional increases in producers' prices do not boost the cost of living, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "the executive branch can not accept responsibility for holding the wage line or for stopping the inflationary spiral." He said his hands must be left reasonably free to hold it.

In an appeal for greater harmony, the Chief Executive said congress and the executive must work together as a team in "saving our free economy."

He expressed a hope that if the legislators could not agree before a summer recess on legislation eliminating what he called the serious defects in the CCC bill, it would pass a resolution continuing the agency's life and increasing its borrowing power until they could draft another measure.

Aroy C. Good Rites To Be Held Sunday

Funeral services for Aroy C. Good, 64, of 210 Reed avenue, will be conducted Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Assembly of God church on Herman street. Rev. Andrew Basil of Delaware will be in charge assisted by the pastor, Rev. Nola West. Pallbearers will be a group of city employes, fellow workers of Mr. Good who died in his home yesterday after an illness of a year.

Friends may call at the home after 7 tonight until 2 p. m. Sunday when the body will be removed to the church to lie in state until time of the service. After services at the church the body will be taken to the M. H. Gunder and Sons funeral home on West Center street to await burial in Marion cemetery Tuesday morning at 10:30.

Surviving Mr. Good are his widow, Mrs. Mable Rawlins Good, and the following children, Rev. C. M. Good of Dayton, Mrs. Demora Sunsera of Canton, Mrs. Gladys Nesselrode of Columbus, Lt. Frank Good stationed at Ephrata, Wash., George, Jesse and Naomi Good of Marion, and two sisters, Mrs. Rebecca Powers of Flint, Mich., and Mrs. Eva J. Rider of Reed avenue.

STOCKS SHOW LITTLE POWER

Pre-Holiday Lethargy Grips Market, Many Quotations Slip Lower.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 2 — Customary pre-holiday indecision gripped the stock market today—domestic exchanges will recess Monday—and, while assorted favorites made a little headway, many leaders jogged along at slightly lower levels.

Pleasing war news from the far Pacific, idle funds and persistance of inflation ideas again served as props for prices.

Under water most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Westinghouse, U. S. Rubber, General Motors, Chrysler, United Aircraft and Dow Chemical. Resistance was displayed by Chesapeake & Ohio, North American, Montgomery Ward, Goodyear, Woolworth, American Can, Deere, Boeing and Phillip Morris.

Chartists were somewhat depressed because of the failure, thus far, of the carriers to confirm the move of the industrial and utility averages to highest marks of from 2 to 3 years.

Railroad Wage Appeal Carried to President

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 2 — President Roosevelt has been asked to set aside the judgement of his principal economic adviser and grant substantial wage increases for 1,000,000 railroad employes who do not work on the trains.

The appeal was carried to the Chief Executive himself late yesterday by George Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, protesting the decision of Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilization director.

Vinson rejected a wage increase of eight cents an hour for the so-called non-operating railroad union members, recommended by an emergency panel. He said it violated the little steel formula. The unions had asked 20 cents an hour more.

WHEAT PRICES HURT BY PROFIT SELLING

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 2—Hedge selling and profit-taking entered the wheat pit in fair volume today, checking the recent advance. The market had a firm undertone at the start but declined rather easily later in the day in view of the President's veto of the Commodity Credit Corporation bill.

Oats and the deferred months of rye were off with the bread cereal, but July rye displayed independent strength on reports that tenders of cash grain on July contracts had gone into strong hands. The grain was said to have been taken by the same interests which took large quantities when May contracts were closed out.

COMBINE OWNERS MEET IN UNION CO.

Machines To Be Used To Prevent Grain Loss.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, July 1—Eighty-one combine owners and operators agreed to extend their efforts to see that all grain in Union county is harvested this year, during a meeting at the Marysville High school auditorium Wednesday night. Prices for custom combining were discussed.

The men were called to the meeting by the county agriculture extension office. A talk on repairing and adjusting combines was given by Prof. G. W. McCuen of Ohio State university.

While no rate for combining was set, the group gentrally agreed that between $3 and $3.25 an acre for wheat and $4 to $4.25 per acre for soybeans would be the popular charge. This is somewhat higher than the charge last year.

All of the 300 combines in the county have been spotted on the county map in the agriculture extension office. A discussion of combining close to the farms of combine owners and eliminate duplicate traveling was held and the map will be used in distributing the work of the combines. Sixteen new combines were allotted the county this year and all have been placed.

The county agricultural staff is desirous of better distributing work of the combines in an effort to eliminate such a loss of soybeans as occurred last year when more than 4,000 acres were not harvested in the county. The combine owners felt that they could handle the crop this year if given a break by the weatherman. The soybean acreage is expected to be about the same as last year when 31,000 acres were grown in the county.

witnesses reports from Germany declared today.

Herne, town in Westphalia, is situated about 22 miles northwest of Duisburg, which is located at the junction of the Rhine and Ruhr.

Witnesses said a great many barges, either were trapped between those points by the attacks or smashed by explosives.

The eyewitnesses said police officially estimated that between 5,000 and 6,000 were killed and 20,000 injured in the raid on Barmen May 29.

The eyewitness, who also traveled through Krefeld, claimed that at least five-sixths of that city was laid in ruins.

He said he saw a grand scale evacuation in the Ruhr.

By The Associated Press

BERN, SWITZERLAND, July 2—The Swiss weekly newspaper Weltwoche declared today the destructive bombing of the German Ruhr had had serious phychological effects, especially among miners in the valley.

The newspaper said the Ruhr miner considers himself in danger of losing everything and asks "what good is to a worker to win the war if thereby he loses the means of livelihood" through destruction?

"Because of this feeling the British terror raids, as we learn from the reich, awaken more and more a feeling of gloomy desperation and resignation which extends itself to relatives at the front of the people concerned," the article added.

Ohioan Forfeits Bond in Miami, Fla., Court

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., July 2 — Phil A. Henderson, who told City Judge Cecil Curry that he was common pleas judge at Logan, O., failed to appear in court yesterday to answer a charge of operating a lottery and forfeited a $200 bond.

Two Negroes, arrested with Henderson, were fined $100 and costs each and sentenced to 15 days in jail.

Detective Lieut. C. O. Huttoe said Henderson, a visitor, took part in a Bolita operation, helping throw the bag of numbered balls with which the lottery winner was decided.

Huttoe testified in court that Henderson was reported to have left Miami.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Mind and Body

We have been discussing this week a somewhat new development, technically called psychosomatic medicine, which rests on the idea that in a great many diseases not only the body but also the mind and the soul are disturbed, and that they progress together, one influencing the other, towards recovery or towards a more and more involved state of invalidism.

The conception is valuable both from the standpoint of the causation of invalid states and also for their treatment. Certainly one of the legitimate criticisms against the average practitioner of medicine at the present time is that he regards all of his invalids from one of two viewpoints. Either he thinks the disturbance is entirely from malfunction of the body and that it can be treated by cathartics and pills and diet and massage and such things alone, or he veers to the other extreme and thinks that the mind, soul and emotions of the patient are primarily to blame and by the use of suggestion and other forms of psychotherapy he can bring about a complete readjustment.

The science of psychosomatic medicine holds to the belief that neither of these views alone is entirely serviceable either to explain the causation or the treatment of disease of this kind.

Of course, it must be remembered that when we refer to somatic changes we mean functional somatic changes. A patient may have a pneumonia which is caused by the entrance of a germ into the lungs and produces completely organic changes that can be seen and felt and detected under the microscope. Nothing that the patient thinks or feels about this condition has any influence on it at all.

But take such a functional condition as the headache which we call migraine, which comes in attacks, or the extreme fatigue that goes with neurasthenia; while these symptoms are very real, we have never been able to find any change in the tissues of the body of which they are the seat to explain the symptoms. A muscle, when it contracts, makes a functional change; so does an intestine when it goes into cramps. After the muscular spasm is over, the muscle and the intestine look exactly the same as before. This is what we mean by functional.

Besides neurasthenia and migraine the psychosomatic advocates think of anxiety neuroses, states of mental depression, neuralgia, many forms of arthritis and dyspepsia as examples of psychosomatic disease.

The entire field of the endocrine glands is a very good example of psychosomatic medicine. The gland secretes too much or too little and it may not appear to be diseased whatever under the microscope. And yet emotional factors may cause this increase or decrease in secretion, which in turn creates the symptoms of which the patient complains. Quite evidently in all these different conditions it is quite as important to approach the patient from the mental, emotional and physhic side, as well as to take advantage of the use of medicine, diet, massage, baths, exercise and a dozen other modalities known to the modern physician.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

AT DICKY'S plant, Katharine rose, and walking over to him took him by the coat lapels as he rose with his usual courtesy, and shook him to and fro.

"Look here, Dicky bird!" she said. "You're getting hallucinations. You know us. That's your loving spouse over there—Madge—and I'm the old family friend, Katrina. You ought to know there's no use trying to put anything like that over on us. We know that you can rise to your loftiest heights only when you have an audience. Of course we concede that this time it will have to be a hidden one, but you will feel its reaction and its urging of you on, and you will give a most brilliant performance."

"I'll promise to outdo Booth himself if you'll only quit talking, Katrina," Dicky said.

She let go his coat lapels, and laughed saucily up at him.

"I'll be satisfied if you'll just quit boring about something you really like," she said. Then she turned to me:

"How about a nap before dinner, or would you rather have one afterwards? You're going to be awake quite some time from two o'clock on you know, and you really should get some sleep in advance."

No Sleep Now

"Oh, I couldn't sleep now!" I said; "and I warn you both that any nap I take after dinner is going to be on the couch in this room. Dicky will have to get me up from there, so as to set the stage for Ruth Hayes, but he might forget about me if I were sleeping anywhere else."

"Insinuating I'm a double-crosser, eh?" Dicky growled. But his grin belied the growl and I wrinkled my nose at him.

"I don't care what you call it,"

"But you don't trust me," he finished for me. "Well, I can't blame you. I wouldn't wake you unless I had to. Suppose we play a game of three-handed something until dinner?"

"Suppose you play a game of two-handed chess," Katharine countered, smiling, for she well knows the fondness Dicky and I have for the game. "I'm deep in a novel I'd like to finish tonight if I can. I think I'll take it to bed with me when I'm parked in that other suite."

She walked back to her chair, adjusted the reading lamp beside it, and picked up a book.

A Pleasant Interlude

"Au revoir, children," she said, smiling at us, and I brought out the chess from my desk, while Dicky set up a table, and spread the folding chess board upon it. We finished our game, luckily, just a few minutes before seven and my father's entrance to tell us that dinner would be served on the minute.

We spent a most enjoyable hour at the dinner table. Even Katharine was in good spirits, partly, I knew, because of her release from the fear of having to encounter Ruth Hayes, and partly because of the promise my father had given her of reunion with her husband at the hideaway after the affair involving Ruth Hayes was settled.

When dinner was over and cleared away, my father came back with us into my sitting room.

"I've arranged for the guards," he said, "They'll take their places on the balcony at midnight, and until then, we'll all simply be marking time. I have that Myers apartment and the house under strict surveillance, and I think, when we put the final quietus on Ruth Hayes, we can clear out that undoubted conspirators' nest."

The Zero Hour

He paused for a second, while his glance went fro mone to us to the other.

"We must all be in our appointed places a little before two o'clock," he said. "At that hour a messenger will deliver a regular telegram to Ruth Hayes at the Myers apartment. It will read: 'Mrs. Bickett too ill to keep her appointment tonight. She will be there tomorrow night at the same hour.'"

He paused again, and looked at me.

"It will be signed with your name," he said.

Dicky broke in irrepressibly.

"And will that burn little Ruthie up!" he exclaimed. "She'll go into whirlwind action."

"She almost certainly will," my father said, "but of course we must face the possibility that she may take the telegram at its face value. However, my lookouts near the Myers apartment will report to me just what her activities are."

"And if she should decide to call it a day, we could lay off, too," Dicky said. "Ain't so, Dad?"

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Better Than Mark VI

Municipalities, organizations and other units of American life now are conducting drives to buy equipment for our fighting soldiers through the purchase of War Bonds.

One piece is the 60-ton heavy tank which was pitted against Hitler's best, the Mark VI in Africa. Its cost is $120,000 and from its performance it has been worth every penny.

With the whole of Europe a maze of pillboxes, our boys will need many, many tanks to clear a path to Unter den Linden, and we'll need many War Bond buyers to pay for them. "Figure It Out Yourself."
